IT STARTS OFF VERY LIVELY.

THE FIRST DAY'S DEBATE On the National Election Law

THE SOUTH HOLDING ITS OWN.

Mr. Hemphill, of South Carolina, Speaks Plain Words

IN DEFENSE OF HIS SECTION.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—[Special.]—The first guns in the fight over the national election law bill were fired in the house today. They made considerable noise, but created little excitement. Indeed, the discussion started off in a spirit of unexpected calmness and delibera-There was none of the excitement that was looked for. The speeches today were, however, only the opening salutes. The heavy firing and thrilling scenes will come later on, when the bloody shirt flaunters begin to get in their work. The democrats are going to make a stolid and determined fight, but each and every one of them are determined to keep their tempers. They will simply show the iniquity and partisanry of the measure, and will trust to the fairness of at least some of the republicans. Henry Cabot Lodge opened the fight today in a two hours' speech which was about as strong an argument of the case as could possibly be made. It was, however, not an argument that would convince any one of the justice of the measure. On the other hand the speech of Mr. Hemphill, of South Carolina, who followed, was one of the strongest arguments of the kind ever heard on the floor of the house. It was, indeed, convincing and was listened to by a large number of republicans attentively.

Mr. Rowell, of Illinois, followed for the republicans and he was followed by Harry Tucker, of Virginia. All of these men were members of the committee that reported the bill and, therefore, had the first right to speak.

The sensation of the day was created when Mr. Tucker took his seat and gave the remainder of his time to Mr. Lehlbach, of New Jersy, a republican, who made a red hot speech in opposition to the bill. Just as he had gotten nder way and was making it hot for the re-

Tom Reed came rushing in from his private com and cried out in a voice loud enough to se heard all around him:

Who in the hell gave that fellow time?" When informed that it had been done by the democrats, he gritted his teeth and subsided. Reed has refused to give any of the republicans time who are opposed to the bill, and Messrs. Ewart and Coleman have requested time from the democrats. Of course it will be given them.

A large number of republicans in the house are opposed to the bill, but it is not probable that more than three or four will have the nerve to bolt over Tom Reed's bars. The bill will, therefore, pass the house, but it is almost certain to meet its death in the senate, where there is no Reed to bulldoze the republican senators in adopting the gag-law.

now, is going to write an open letter on the subject of the bill, severely criticizing it, and it is expected that Governor Hill, of New York, will do the same. A movement is also on foot to hold mass meetings in the north and work up a general sentiment in that section against the measure. Here are full synopses of today's speeches:

of today's speeches:

Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, began the debate upon the national election bill. He said that he did not think a more grave and serious subject had ever come before the house. It demanded serious and deliberate treatment. He had no personalities or reflections to make, but desired to treat the question dispassionately. The bill proposed to extend the existing laws regarding the election of members, so that they would be effective throughout the United States whenever the people wanted them so extended. He proceeded to sketch the pian of the bill in outline. No local machinery was disturbed. He said ballots were to be cast as at present, and no secret ballot system was to be interfered with where it prevailed. Everything that concerned where it prevailed. Everything that concerned where it prevailed. Everything that concerned the government should be open. The business of the people must not be transacted in dim corners, but openly and before the people's eyes. The assurance of honest elections lay in making public every step and act by which the representatives of the people were chosen to their high office. To secure publicity at every stage of the election, therefore, was the leading principle of the bill. Under its terms concealment became impossible without a resort to violence, and violence was itself publicity. As to the power of congress to enact such ity. As to the power of congress to enact such legislation the constitution and the decisions of the supreme court were absolutely conclusive. The power was found in section 4. of the supreme court were absolutely conclusive. The power was found in section 4, article 1, of the constitution, relating to the time, place and manner of electing representatives. It was not enough that elections were fair; they must be known to be fair. The question of expediency was a most important one. It had been charged that the bill was sectional. Observing the heat of certair persons and newspapers and their vehemence, he was led to remember that suspicion always came to guilty minds. The acts which it was proposed to extend had been called into existence by the gigantic frauds in the city of New York, prior to 1870 and 1871. That certainly was not a sectional origin in the sense that the charge was now made.

As to the southern states, Mr. Lodge continued, it was apparent that many people believed that great frauds were there committed, and if the belief be true that such a thing as a fair election in the south was unknown, then It was high time the United States should put a stop to the evil, if it had to exercise every power the constitution put into its hands.

LODGE AND HIS FIGURES.

LODGE AND HIS FIGURES. Mr. Lodge and his Figures.

Mr. Lodge presented a number of abstracts to show the insufficiency of representation in the south. He said that in forty-one election districts in the south members were elected by an average of less than 15,000 votes. He compared Mississippi the south. He said that in forty-one election in the south. He said that in forty-one election districts in the south members were elected by an average of less than 15,000 votes. He compared Mississippi and New Jersey, where the populations in 1880 were equal in number. The total vote in Mississippi was 117,000; in New Jersey 245,000. In 1888 the total vote in Mississippi had dwindled to 115,000, while in New Jersey it had swollen to 303,000. No intelligent and fair-minded man would deny that there had been frauds in the north, and the proof was the efforts made there by both parties to throw open elections to publicity. It was not necessary to argue that southern elections were not always fair and free. Where wrong-doing occurred in the north it was where one party sought to get ahead of the other by vulgar means. As to the south it was largely a question of race. The negro problem was one of the gravest before the American people. It was one in which all were concerned and were responsible, whether living in the north or south. The wrong of slavery was to be expisted by the north which condoned its available. ore responsible, whether living in the north south. The wrong of slavery was to be ex-sted by the north, which condoned it, as well as by the south which upheld it. The negro was not forced on us like the Chines. It was idle to say that he was better off than had he not been brought to civilization. Better an eternity of savage liberty than a civilization which came to them with the auctioneer's hammer in one hand and the slave-driver's whip in the other. Such fidelity as the negro had shown to the government and master deserved a better reward from the country, north and south, than it had yet received. The negro wanted no brutality on one side, nor sentimentality on the other. The government which made the black man a citizen was a cowardly government if it did not protect him in his right. Failure to do right brought its own punishment.

in his right. Failure to do right brought its own punishment.

The bill had been called revolutionary. Revolution was to be found in speeches he read—speeches which showed that constitutional representation did not exist. The first step toward a solution of the race problem was to take it out of national politics. The national government must extend to every citizen the equal rights which the constitution guaranteed.

In conclusion, he said: "Let us do our whole duty to every American citizen—rich or poor, black or white, weak or strong, and we can safely abide by the result. Let us secure to every man liberty and freedom, which is the corner-stone of American liberty." [Applause.]

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Lodge was warmly congratulated by his republican colleagues.

MR. HEMPHILL'S GREAT SPEECH.

Mr. Hemphill, of South Carolina, followed, beginning with an argument to demonstrate the unconstitutional nature of the bill. That congress had no power to interfere with elections, he read from legislative declarations in the past by the states of New York, Ohio and New Jersey, against congressional usurpa-tion of the right to conduct elections. He de-clared that this was not a national bill. It was sectional. Under the provisions of the first section, some portions of the United States would be under the supervision of from two to three supervisors, according to the respective size of the congressional and judicial districts. size of the congressional and judicial districts. He could conceive of no honest purpose for such a provision. It could have no effect but to place the people of some districts between the upper and nether mill-stones. As to the terms under which the law was to go into effect (the petition of limited numbers of persons), why was it so limited? If it was a good thing the law should be of universal application. Why was it that this very complicated and unsatisfactory provision was put in unless there was an inprovision was put in unless there was an in-tention to make the law bear down upon some portion of the people of this country, and allow others to do as they saw fit. He called for an explanation of that provision. Now, suppose the United States inspectors were corrupted, and from the amount of corruption depicted the United States inspectors were corrupted, and from the amount of corruption depicted by the gentleman from Massachusetts, it might safely be inferred that one-half of the people were unworthy of trust; that they were to be watched as criminals or ticket-of-leave men. Suppose that a supervisor was to return a democrat. He had a life tenure and couldn't be removed. That hadn't occurred to the gentleman from Massachusetts. This was a measure to rob the people of their dearest rights. He had marched before the glittering bayonets of the United States soldiers to cast his ballot. Troops of soldiers had been sent to his town, and every soldier had cast his ballot for Greeley. The result was that the party had a bigger majority than it had ever had in any preceding election.

"Under this system, which it was proposed to revive, the people of the south had been robbed some years ago by picked villains of the north, backed up by bayonets of the United States army. The seath did not want to be put in that position again. "We," Mr. Hemphill continued, "know that we must either rule the country or leave it. Now, for myself, before the people of the United States, and before God, in all reverence, I swear we will not leave it. [Applause.] It is the home of our fathers. There their bones lie buried. They bought it with their blood when Concord and Lexington were the battle-fields of this country. They have handed it down to us unimpaired; and, Gentlemen, are we not our fathers' sons? Shall the blood first turn back in our veins? Shall we transmit to coming generations a great and noble state which has been overruled and we transmit to coming generations a great and noble state which has been overruled and down-trodden by a race whom God never intended should rule over us? I do not hesitate to say the colored man has as many rights as I have; but he cannot have his rights and mine too; and this law is intended to put him again in control of the southern states; intended to awaken that race prejudice which is fast dying out; intended to bring about again that constant irritation and clash between the two colors in the south which will retard its growth and which will be destructive of the very principles of human government."

Mr. Hemphill then read from a recent address by ex-Governor Chamberlain, of South Carolina (a republican), in Boston, to show what a former governor and republican thought of the negro situation in the south. He knew it was realess to of the negro situation in the south. He knew it was useless to reason with certain men in the north. They did not want to and would not believe anything the south might say. But there were many people in the country who believed in honesty, and be had no doubt that "when we pass back of politicians and get to the great body of the American people and have stated to them honestly and fairly the truth with reference to the southern country and the black man in it; when they have understood the whole facts and have come to a conclusion. I have no dobut they will renunderstood the whole facts and have come to a conclusion. I have no dobut they will render an honest and righteous verdict; and whatever that verdict may be, as a common citizen of a common country, I pledge the people of the south to accept it as the final arbitrament of this great problem, and relying upon Him who is the God of justice, we will go forward in the great work of life before us, and endeavor to perform our whole duty to this country—honestly, patriotically and faithfully."

fully."
Mr. Hemphill was loudly applauded by the demecrats as he sat down, and nearly al them pressed forward to congratulate him. ROWELL GETS INTO BUSINESS.

Mr. Rowell, of Illinois, said that after the presentation of the case by Mr. Lodge, the republican side might well afford to rest the debate, and after the cloquent closing of the speech of Mr. Hemphill, all sides of the house ought to cry aloud for the passage of the bill. ought to cry aloud for the passage of the bill.
But he proceeded to speak at length, asserting that the necessity for the bill arose chiefly from the condition of affairs in the south, and upon being challenged for specifications by southern members, he gave instances in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Arkansas. His assertions were disputed by the gentlemen from those states, so constantly and stubbornly, that at times two or more members would be speaking at once.

Mr. Rowell, however, held the floor and abated nothing of the sweeping character of his charges.

Mr. Lehlbach, of New Jersey, republican, said he could not favor this legislation. He admitted that the condition of elections in said he could not lavor this legislatur. He admitted that the condition of elections in many parts of the country would seem to justify the passage of such a measure. He had no doubts frauds were perpetrated, to a certain extent, both north and south. It would, however, in his opinion, be wiser to let the people of the several states regulate their own elections. (Loud democratic applause.) The advancement of the moral sentiment of country and education would bring about the same results and relief then would be permanent. The bill was not general and uniform. He questioned the right to make a law applicable in some districts and not in others. The law should be uniformly applicable and not dependent upon the petition of any number of citizens. United States supervisors were to be appointed, and supervisors, experience had shown, were liable, like others, to seek to influence elections their own way. He thought the law would bring about a conflict of authority between the election officers, chosen by the people and those appointed by United States judges, and this might bring about a deplorable state of affairs. Law could not be enforced when moral sentiment was so low as to favor corrupt elections, and when that sentiment was eleyated law would be unnecessary.

LET THE SOUTH ALONE, Mr. Tucker, of Virginia, demurred to the bill generally and specifically. He did not agree with Mr. Rowell that it was waste of time to discuss the constitutionality of the bill. On the contrary, he proposed to discuss that question, and proceeded to say that under the question, and proceeded to say that under the terms of the bill supervisors were to exercise the right to determine the qualifications of voters and rights reserved to the states. Then it was not to be doubted that a state had the right to establish an educational qualification. Yet this bill provided that a supervisor should point out the box to an ignorant voter; it overrode state qualification and allowed an ignorant man, whom a state sought to exclude, to vote. Mr. Tucker read from Speaker Reed's magazine article on the subject of a national election law, and declared that he had virtually admitted that it would be proper for the white people of the south to suppress the negro vote if necessary to the preservation of civilization. All he asked for the state of Virginia was to be let alone to work out her own salvation. The bill, hideous as it was, would fail of its purpose. The only way to correct fraud was by an enlightened public sentiment, when it would be frowned down.

DENNING APPOINTED.

DENNING APPOINTED.

Jabez T. Denning was today appointed post-master at Augusta. It is Buck's work. He came on here three days ago to have Denning appointed, and today succeeded. Clarkson and a number of republican leaders were for retaining Major Ker Boyce, and, indeed, it was practically decided that he should be re-tained when Clarkson left here two weeks ago, but with Clarkson left here two weeks ago, but with Clarkson out of the way, Buck had little trouble in persuading the merchant statesman that Denning was the man for the place. Postmaster Lewis, of Atlanta, assisted Buck in his work. Both he and Buck are here yet.

An order was given to the sergeantat-arms to request the attendance of the absentees. It was found to be impossible, however, to get a voting quorum (several senators being paired), and at the suggestion of Mr. Platt, an understanding was reached that the vote on the bill and amendments would begin at 4 o clock tomorrow.

A proposition to hold a state convention and nominate fourteen delegates for the state at large, to the constitutional convention, was voted down, but it was recommended that the republican candidates be run in all the black counties, and counties where they would stand a chance of being elected. The attendance was small.

Ten days since, A. G. De Witt, superintendent of the Electric Light company, went to Cincinnati, to be absent two days, and since then nothing has been heard from him. It is charged that he is a very much married man, with two living wives, and dwelling with the third one without the formality of a wedding ceremony. The brother of the second wife is here hidden somewhere. He told DeWitt that if the little ones were not given up a prosecution for bigamy would follow. THE KILLING OF WHATLEY. He Was Quarreling With a Negro Gambler,

Who Shot Him.

Covington, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—Full particulars of the killing of Robert Whatley, by Charles Glover, colored, near Almon a few days ago, have not yet been obtained. The facts so far developed show that there was a party of negroes who had been gambling nearly all night, and Whatley had been selling whisky to them. Charles Glover had won the money of another negro and Whatley was giving the looser some points about how to play cards, when Charles Glover asked Whatley what he had to do with the matter. Whatley replied that he had nothing to do with it, but was willing to "stake" the other negro in a game between him and Charles. Charles Glover then cursed him and threatened to kill him, and in a few moments said that he would kill him any way, drew his pistol and fired on Whatley, killing him almost instantly. Charles Glover has not yet been captured, and his whereabouts is unknown. It is suspected that several other negroes were in some way implicated in the killing, and two have been arrested and lodged in jail.

TILLMAN WAS

WITH HIS FRIENDS.

DISCUSSION AT EDGEFIELD.

Several Notable Characters Who Furnished Amusement.

THE GOOD MARSHAL OF THE DAY Who Was Willing to See Things

Fairly Conducted.

GENERAL EARLE INTERRUPTED.

AIKEN, S. C., June 26.—[Special.]—Tillman was on his native heath at Edgefield today, and the demonstration was as strongly in his favor as that at Columbia was against him. The scene was a remarkable one. A platform had been erected in the grove near the Edge field academy, and in the center was a large arm chair covered with lilac and garlanded with sheaves and vines. The lilac was suggestive of royal purple and the sheaves of agriculture. In the chair sat Tillman, surrounded by friends and flowers. Back of him were banners like these: "Tillman and Reform man, the People's Candidate." With them was a banner with a picture of General Bratton, and under it the inscription: "The battlescarred hero of '76."

A LOOK OVER THE CROWD.

A great and enthusiastic crowd surged about the speaker's stand, and all about the grove were wagons and buggies and teams. On nother stand over opposite the speaker's platform the Palmetto regiment band, from Columbia, was stationed and inspiring airs stirred the people in the intervals of discus-

In the forefront of the crowd were som ladies and girls attended by young men. The great mass of the crowd was made up of sunburned yeomanry of a good average of intellinear the speakers' stand, and they were noisy from the first. When the speaking had lasted four hours they were in a maudlin condition ONE OF THE MARSHALS.

The people are brave and intelligent, but rild in the farmers' movement and wild for Tillman. There were some characters who would fill an honored place in Longstreet's gallery of Georgia scenes. One fellow attracted general attention. He was one of the marshals of the day and was flitting right and left as the crowd plied him with questions. Our friend, the marshal, acted as self-appointed sponsor for the general, and between hiccoughs encouraged him to stand his ground. Whenever General Earle hurled Tillman's charges against the state government back in listeeth, there was a loud and angry buzzing in the crowd as if a great swarm of bees had been stirred roughly with a stick.

"Stand your ground, general, (hic) stand your ground," exclaimed the marshal, who was ow gloriously drunk. "I'm a Tillman man but I wanter give every man a chance." He had a long buggy whip in his hand and popped it at the crowd. "Lie low, boys," he said—"lie low; you know how I stand—but give this man a chance (hic). Go on, captain (hic)-go on." He was just drunk enough to feel that he was Lord of all he surveyed. Though a rampant Tillman man, he took a fancy to General Earle, whose knightly bearing, flashing dark eye and spirited debate, has gained for him the soubriquet of the "Sumter Earl Eagle." EARLE ANSWERS QUESTIONS.

General Earle was frequently interrupted, often by insinuations about "the Columbia ring," His reply was like the flash of a rapier. A rowdy had been interrupting for a half an hour when the general turned upon him and said in a tone of extreme commiseration: "My friend, I am glad I can give you arguments, but I am very sorry I cannot give you the brain to understand them." Once only he dropped the rapier for the bludgeon. A rowdy jeered him saying, "You are in the ring." "It is false, sir," exclaimed the general with rising anger, but the next instant he was cool and his rapier-General Earle's speech-contained the usual reply to the charges against the state government and denunciation of the Schell manifesto which arraigned the democratic party and charged a want of self-government.

The notable feature of the speech was General Earle's declaration of his opinion that if Tillman were elected he would be the last democratic governor of South Carolina. "Be-cause," said he, "one or the other faction will appeal to the negro."

This prophecy was reiterated when Tillman referred to it. He charged Tillman with being responsible for the breaking up of the party. "For," said he, "you have organized a party within a party. You have a separate organization of fyour own (the Farmers' association), and you obey your own execu tive committee more implicitly than you obey the executive committee democratic party.

TILLMAN'S REPLY. Tillman replied, renewing his charge that the legislature was bamboozled and debauched. He said the railroad commission had been tamed. This was a direct reflection on old Governor Bonham, the war governor of South Carolina, and now chairman of the railroad commission-a noble old Roman, now about eighty years of age. Tillman explained the word "tamed," saying his opponents had given it a meaning he did not intend and one not it a meaning he did not intend and one not warranted by the dictionary. "To tame anything," said he, "is to do what you do when a wild animal is put into a cage and you fix it so it won't scratch and bite. The railroad commission has been tamed so it won't scratch and bite the railroads enough to keep them from imposing upon you farmers. An attempt was made to pass a bill to give the railroad commission more power. The legislature was bamboozled and paid to give it the necessary power. That is the way the railroad commission was tamed."

Adjutant-General Milledge Bonham, who is a candidate for re-election, is also a son of Governor Bonham, and he was present when Tillman made this statement. Replying, he said it was a painful thing to have to go about South Carolina to defend the good name of his father, whose head was whitening for the his father, whose head was whitening for the grave. If it was meant to insinuate that there had been on the part of his father any corruption or lack of duty, he denounced it as absolutely and utterly false. In the same terms he denounced the insinuation against the state government.

The first speaker was General Bratton, one of the anti-Tillman candidates for governor. He received a respectful hearing, and made a brief and direct appeal for union in the democratic party, and the supremacy of the Anglo-Saxon race in South Carolina. He referred to the federal election law, and said that the only salvation for South Carolinians was in union within the democratic party. He received more respectful attention than any speaker but Tillman.

THE CROWD VERY NOISY. Earle came next and was glad to see ladies

Earle came next and was glad to see ladies present, because their presence, like the sunbeams, always had a happy effect.

He had only said this much when a great babel of tongues drowned his voice.

Tillman went to the front of the platform and said to the crowd: "My friends, I must say you will make me ashamed of you. Do me the kindness to listen to General Earle and these distinguished gentlemen while they tell you why they are concessed to the farmers." you why they are opposed to the farmers'

The noise did not quite subside, and General Earle, advancing, said, "I have always understood that Edgefield county furnished brave men; as brave as any in the state."
"It does." "It does." "It does," said

"I am always glad to see brave men," said the general, "glad to look them in their faces, the general, "glad to look them in their faces, and I take the position that a truly brave man will not insult a brave man."

"Hurrals for Earle," shouted a chorus. In this way he got attention and kept it with some interruptions. One farmer asked him why he did not, while attorney-general, prosecute the state suits against the phosphate companies. He showed that the law gave him no anthority to conduct department of agriculture litigation, though he tried to get a bill through telgive him authority. He succeeded in making the man say he was satisfied with the explanation.

A Tillman man asked General Earle why he allowed his name to go before the convention two years ago and then let his brother withdraw after the balloting began. He explained that he was under a pledge to Governor Richardson, and he could not honorably accept. "Now, my friend," said the general, "does that satisfy you?"

"I think you were coquetting with the convention." said the mean."

"does that satisfy you?"
"I think you were coquetting with the convention," said the man.

THE GENERAL EXPLAINS. General Earle then explained that his name went before the convention without his consent and against his wish, expressed to the chairman of his county delegation that mornng. When he told them that he had come to say upon Captain Tillman's native heath what had said elsewhere, they cried "That's right—we'll hear you gladly;" but when he said to them, "I stand here in the face of your candidate, and say that South Carolina, since 1876, say that South Carolina, since 1876, is worthy of all honor, and her government has been as pure as any in the world, and that those things said to the contrary are slanders, nothing more, nothing less. Now I have said to Ouptain Tillman, you have siandered the state." At this the great human swarm made that peculiar angry, buzzing sound, and there were cries of, "No, he didn't;" "Let him prove it," with loud calls for Tillman.

The speech ran on with interruptions of this kind, severely trying the speaker, who kept kind, severely trying the speaker, who kept cool and kept his temper, and as he proceeded the hurrahs for Earle became more numerous.

TILLMAN AGAIN. Then came Tillman-the only original Ben. He is a peculiar genius, more like Sam Jones than any speaker I can call to mind. He has been called the political Sam Jones of South Carolina. His every way of talking to a crowd with conversational familiarity and homespun speech and his vigorous onslaught on what he antagonizes are very much like the methods of the evangelist. But there is this important difference: Sam Jones says hard things in a difference: Sam Jones says hard things in a rollicking way that does not beget bitterness. Tillman throws vitrol, and wherever it falls there is an incurable wound. The victims of his invective hate him, and they do not turn and confess to him as they do to Sam Jones. But he throws his vitriol only at his enemies. He, in a sense, honors his antagonists, and has announced that if he does not get the governorship it will go to Earle or Bratton, who bear the brunt and the scars of his sareasm, and not to any one of his own his sarcasm, and not to any one of his own camp followers.

SAMPLES OF HIS TALK. Here is the way he talked to his people: "I am glad for once to be on my native heath and to tell you the God's truth. [Cheers.]
"I am accused of demagoguery. ["That's a d—n lie," said a voice.]

"I am accused of incendiarism, I am ac cused of splitting the democratic party [A voice: "Didn't do it"], I am accused of so many crimes that the decalogue will not hold them all, and I want to say to you to listen to me calmly, and judge me by my own words. You know my life. I have been reared in this county; and if there is a man in this audience who know one solitory thing dishorable or who knows one solitary thing dishonrable or wrong about me, let him say it now. [a voice: "Hurrah for Tillman! God bless all the one-"Hursh for Tillman! God bless all the oneeyed men!"]

"You have heard one of the bitterest speeches you ever listened to [A voice: "Hit him again!"], and it has been made at me because I stand as the representative of the farmers of South Carolina." [Here the applause was deafening and the great swarm buzzed loudly and angrily.]

"They wish to strike me down, hoping that you will go to sleep again and never get those rights and privileges that you have inherited but have been kept from you.

"We have but one party in this state. It is a white men's party. Democracy in South Carolina is white supremacy, and nothing more nor less, and he who wants to split the white people of this state is worse than Judas. But I ask you my friends. "Is the majority to submit to the minority?" If these men who now govern us will rule or rain the majority to submit to the minority?" If these men who now govern us will rule or ruin the party of the state, I ask to say where the crime lies. What effect has this one party had to make us disallow the nominee, whether we liked him or not. They call it a democratic government, when it was nothing but the rule of an oligarchy and aristocracy. [Voices: "That's it, talk it out."]

Four or five men were slightly cut in a row between Tillman and Earle men during the at-ternoon. About dusk an Earle man hallowed for ternoon. About dusk an Earie man hallowed for Earle and a Tillman man took it up. A dozen ranged themselves in line of battle on each side, and the Earle leader dared the others across the dead-line. A bloody row was narrowly escaped by the vigorous action of the special police. W. G. COOPEE.

THE DOG WAS MAD,

And Two Boys Whom It Had Bitten Will Be Sent Off for Treatment.

Sent Off for Treatment.

Augusta, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—A short time ago the soin of Mr. Robert W. Robertson was bitten by a dog believed to be mad. Before the dog was killed it bit two other dogs. The little boy was carried on to the Pasteur institute, in New York, and the two dogs which were bitten were fastened up to await developments. No evidence of hydrophobia appearing, the dogs were released a few days ago. Yesterday one of them bit a little seven-year-old negro girl. The dog was fastened up to see if it was really mad, and this morning it died after foaming and bleeding at the mouth, biting the sides of the cage which it was confined in, and showing unmistakable signs of hydrophobia. A purse will be made up among the citizens to send the little negro to New York for the Pasteur treatment.

LA LIBERTAD, Salvador, via Galveston, June 26.-During a ball given at the president's residence, in the capital, on the 22d instant, on the celebration of the anniversary of the triumphal entrance of General Menendez, General Melzio Marcial suddenly entered the ball-room about 11 o'clock, and announced, on beroom about 11 o'clock, and announced, on behalf of his chief, General Egeta, who had arrived with 600 men from Santa Anna, a revolt against the existing government, demanding at the same time the deposition of President

At this juncture General Martinez, comman der of the government forces in the capital. appeared on the scene and announced that President Menendez, who was sick in an upper story of the house, requested an audience with Marcial. An altercation ensued between Martinez and Marcial, resulting in the latter being shot and instantly killed. Egeta's soldiers thereupon took Martinez prisoner and captured the barracks. Twenty-three persons were killed. It is asserted that the president died on the following day from heart disease, which had been aggravated by the excitement. General Egetas was proclaimed provisional president and a new cabinet was formed, but it has since been dissolved and General Guirote is for the present directing the different branches of the governmental administration. AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF THE MEMBERS YESTERDAY.

The Vice-Presidents Elected and the Organ zation Getting in Fine Shape-Every-thing Lively With Enthusiasm.

The Northen campaign club grows The meeting yesterday was probably the most enthusiastic political meeting that has been held in Atlanta for some time.

The club met at the present headquarters in room No. 5, 15h South Broad street, and when ident W. H. Venable called the meeting to order the room was literally filled with the friends of Mr. Northen whose avowed purpose is to make him the next governor of Georgia. President Venable immediately after cailing club to order, made a plain little talk to the members, setting forth in a clear manner the objects of the organization, and urging upon the members the necessity of their untiring efforts to promote the interests of the club, and carry it forward to the full realization of that success which, as he put it, is promised so abundantly in the outset.

He said with the present promising pros-pects he entertained not the slightest fears as to consequent results, but looked forward to grand and brilliant victories for Mr. Northen in the different counties from day to day.

The meeting yesterday was characterized by the intense enthusiasm stamped upon every action of the members.

The Counties That Will Act. Among the first counties that will act upon the gubernatorial campaign are Pickens, Coweta and Pulaski.

Here the interest centers for this week. These counties will be agitated with speak

A DISAPPOINTMENT.

Colonel Hardeman Did Not Speak at Newnan on Account of Illness.

NEWNAN, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—A telegram was received from Colonel Tom Harde-Macon, and canceling his appointment to peak here today. Hon. W. J. Northen, not being advised of Colonel Hardeman's illness, arrived in the city at 9 a. m. with the expecta tion of joining Colonel Hardeman in the dissussion appointed for today, but upon learning that his opponent was providentially hindered from keeping his engagement declined to A large crowd was in town, and there was much disappoint-ment at the failure of the two gubernatorial gladiators to come together. The people are gladiators to come together. The people are enthusiastic for Northen, and the county will go for him overwhelmingly on Saturday, Even if Colonel Hardeman had spoken, it is doubtful if the result would have been thanged in a single district.

Mr. Northen has been holding a regular leve at the Virginia house since his arrival, a large number of friends and admirers having wheel town their respect to the left extra 200. ed to pay their respects. He left at 3:40

W. Y. Atkinson, candidate for the legislature, made a fine speech today, to a large and enthusiastic crowd, in which he discussed and enthusiastic crowd, in which he discussed in his usually able manner the issues involved in the legislative campaign. Hon. J. P. Jones, member of the last house, also made a speech. At 2 p. m., Hon. J. M. Terrell, of Meriwether, candidate for the senate from this district, addressed a rousing meeting in the court-house, and made many friends by his strong and patriotic speech. Colonel R. D. Nominated for the Legislature.

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]
Yesterday the Farmers' alliance met by delegation to select a suitable candidate for the legislature. A full delegation was present and many prominent alliancemen had their horses bridled and standing at the alliance gate, saying in their hearts, if not by words, "Brethren, I am a patriot and a full-fledged allianceman; send me—I'll sacrifice all to serve my dear people," but alas, only one could be mamed, and that lucky man, after considerable balloting, was announced to be Mr. Silas Meeks. They could not have done better out of all their material. But about fifteen hearts are sad. The chairman of the democratic executive committee has called a meeting to come off on July 4th to give directions as to nominations, etc.

Even the merchants are engaged in farming, to a small extent, and one among them, Mr. J. H. Ringer, says that the thinks this year will be one of the best crop years that Georgia has known. Being a practical farmer, his opinion is to be appreciated. Mr. J. A. C. Logan, a prominent farmer of this section, says that with all the drawbacks of a mild winter and a late freeze, he thinks that a larger per cent of coton will be made this season than last, as the stalks are in a more healthy condition than ton will be made this season than last, as the stalks are in a more healthy condition than they were at this time last year, and, all things considered, the staple crop of Spalding county will be better than it has been since the war.

HE WAS VERY POPULAR

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]
Rev. Milo Mills is an ebon divine of this county who, according to the evidence of some of his flock, has appropriated his high commission to the devil's service.
Rev. Mills is popular among his people, and is the universal favorite of a large circle of female acquaintances. It seems that he and his spouse agreed to disagree on some delicate point, and, to punish her with the pangs of jealousy, he carried on a general flirtation among the unmarried members of his charge. He is said to be an exquisite coquette, and he was not long in wearing the hearts of his admirers as buttons on a charm string. He nirers as buttons on a charm string. He iterally had them under his control, but his aidable sallies had no effect on his who went about her daily work as

TERMINATION OF COMMENCEMENT

A Large Audience Witness the Exercises the Study Hall-The Honors Awarded-

MACON, Ga., June 26 .- [Special.]-A large and appreciative audience thronged the study the final exercises of this admirable institu among whom we noted Mr. and Mrs. Wall, of Valdosta, Mr. and Mrs. Brosman, of Albany, and Mr. and Mrs. Lynch, of Atlanta. The reverend clergy of St. Stanislans occu pied prominent positions, as did also the pas-tor, Rev. Father Winklereid, S. J. The programme was inaugurated by a duet, 'With Flying Colors," rendered in a brilliant and effective manner by Misses C. Lynch of Atlanta, and A. Lee of Columbus. This first musical selection made a most favorable impression. Next followed the recitation, "Independence Bell," by Miss Annie Mock, of Albany. For one so young Miss Mock showed a re-markably fine conception of her subject, and stirred up the latent fire of patriotism in all learts. She reflected great credit on her teacher of elocution, the gifted Miss Tardy. A piano solo, "Love's Request," was performed in admirable style by Miss L. Johnson of Americus. This young lady bids fair to attain prominence as a planist before many years.

Miss Annie McKervey, of Macon, Miss Annie McKervey, of Macon, one of the graduates, then read an essay on "Books." The way in which this young lady handled her subject proved her perfect familiarity with standard literature in general, and the classics in particular. Miss McKervey's effort was certainly appreciated by the audience, and marked her as a student of research.

Miss Maggie Doyle then charmed the assemblage with a piano solo, "L'Esprit." Miss Doyle's artistic touch and brilliant rendition, won for her many compliments.

A humorous selection, "Ann Jane's Classical Concert," by Miss Katie Krauss, of Brunswick was misyed immensity and caused a wick, was enjoyed immensely, and caused a ripple of laughter to float through the hall. Miss Krauss is unequaled in her interpreta-tion of the humorous, and has won laurels on former occasions.

A piano solo, "Faust," came next in order, finely executed by Miss S. Cooley, of Eatonton. Miss Cooley is another young lady of Mt. de Sales, noted for her musical genius as

Mt. de Sales, noted for her musical genius as well as talents of a superior order.

An essay, "The Lessons of Life," was charmingly read by Miss May Lee, of Macon. Miss Lee feelingly portrayed the vicissitudes of life, and we regret that space will not allow us to give her essay entire. Macon has reason to be proud of Misses McKerrey and Lee.

Duet, "Overture," by Misses Doyle and Cooley again electrified the audience, and the breathless attention pervading the hall bore testimony of the general appreciation of this musical gem. nusical gem.

The education imparted at Mt. de Sales cannot be surpassed in theoretical knowledge or practical results, as was apparent to all who had the pleasure of being present this morning. The distribution of premiums and conferring of honors came next on the programme. Below we append the list.

Miss Brosnan, of Albany, then delivered the valedictory, and her voice became slightly tremulous as she uttered her farewell to friends and companions. The ideas embodied in her composition were well sustained, displaying much rhetorical genius. Albany is to be congratulated in laying claim to Miss Bros-playing much rectorical genius. Albany is to be congratulated in laying claim to Miss Bros-nan. After the conclusion of Miss Bros-valedictory, Rev. Father Brislaw, S. J., ad-dressed the graduates in language at once learned and effective, and thus terminated a most enjoyable occasion.

NEWNAN, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—Judge Hammond, of Atlanta, delivered the commencement address to the school today.

The speaker's subject was "Seeing and Hearing." He introduced his remarks by saying: "It is the prompt and quick application of our perceptive and reflective faculties to those things which come within the range of the eye and ear, discriminating in favor of that which is substantial and good and against that which is frivolous, or base and degrading, that constitutes the art of seeing and hearing."

Continuing, he argued that one of the chief objects of an education is to teach us how to exercise our perceptive and reflective powers, and to arouse a desire to bring them more into play. Seeing and hearing are important factors in the building of character, and whether what we see and hear helps us on depends not only on our power to grasp and appropriate it, but also on the use that we make of it. There are many extraneous elements that enter into the mind, and pervert the judgment. The mind must be free from such influence, or else it is not in a condition to receive the things that come to it from without. Men are more often swayed by passion than by reason. There are discordant and warring elements all over the world today. Why is it that these elements do not agree? It is because the voice of prejudice is louder than that of reason. Let us stop the voice of prejudice and hush forever the voice of passion and of hate. Let is open every mind to what is good and true, and let it enter and exert a wholesome influence in the building up of character. "I would hope to see the dawning of the day when the sun of truth would shed its equal rays into the willing minds of all, and none would reject or repel its salutary and benign influence."

After speaking more at length on the conflict between truth and prejudice, the speaker concluded his remarks by saying that he felt that he had pointed out a sure method by which to build up a well-rounded; and symmetrical character, the greatest attainment possible to human endeavor, "for into the warp and woof of human character enter those things that come to us from without, and if we would make the fabric an enduring one of the finest and best quality, we must learn the art of seeing and best quality, we must learn the art of seeing and best into the many of which we may and best quality, we must learn the art of see-ing and hearing, by means of which we may carefully exclude everything that is useless, or base and unworthy, and diligently receive and appropriate all that is high and en-

A BRILLIANT ADDRESS. Orator Jim Blount, Jr., Delights a Forsyth

Audience. FORSYTH, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—Mon-roe Female college exercises closed today with the commencement address of Mr. James-H. Blount, Jr., of Macon. His theme was "The Mis-Blount, or, of Macon. His theme was 'Ine als-sion of the South's Young Women," and Mr. Blount spoke feelingly of woman in her dif-ferent phases of usefulness—as sweet-heart, wife and mother. His allusions to the part our southern women have taken in the moulding of the have taken in the moulding of the south's destiny were eloquent and impressive, and his whole address was a masterpiece of oratory. That it was appreciated by our people was evidenced by the frequent applause that greeted the eloquent young orator as he plead for the sanctity of the southern home circle, and remonstrated against the fast advancing idea of female suffrage. Mr. Blount's address made him many friends in the county, who will watch his carer with pride and interest.

West Point Public Schools.

West Point Public Schools. WEST POINT, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—
The West Point public school has just closed one of its best commencements. This has been indeed a prosperous year with the institution, and it is the universal verdict of all that her teachers have never given more effectively work. effectual work. The closing oral examina-tions shows the white heat of study and work tions shows the white heat of study and work the pupils have been subjected to.

The crowds in attendance upon all the exercises were large, and the last two nights at the opera-house, which included one night's declamation by the boys, and the other, the annual concert given by Miss Callie McKemie, were immense. It has always been a study as well as a pleasure to see a boy step out upon the stage, make his bow and deliver his speech. There is philosophy as well as statesmanship in it. Our boys are among the coming ones, and they all did well.

The concert of Miss McKemie was the best she has ever given. The flag drill and tamshe has ever given. The flag drill and tam-bourine drill, with "Blue Beard," were all decided hits, and won the audience. The girls looked sweet, and every motion was grace. Miss McKemie was assisted by Miss Stella Burns and Mrs. Theo Myer in music.

Dr. A. G. Thomas, of Atlanta, delivered the annual address, which was a masterly discussion of "Success." The doctor was in his best trim, and made one of his best and captivating speeches. Superintendent McKemie deserves great credit for the efficient work he is doing in the public schools here. in the public schools here. The West Georgia College, HAMILTON, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—The commencement exercises of the West Georgia Agricultural and Mechanical school, under the auspices of Professor H. A. Hayes, began Sunday with the introductory sermon, preached by Rev. Mr. McKay, of LaGrange, Ga., in the Methodist church. The church was filled to overflowing, and the congregation never listened to a grander sermon. Monday's exercises began at the college with recitations from the primary department, and a grand musical entertainment at night. The young ladies did themselves much credit in rendering some fine pieces of both instrumental and yocal music. The musicale was under the ing some fine pieces of both instrumental and vocal music. The musicale was under the direction of Mrs. B. C. Kimbrough. The young ladies have been well taught in this department by Mrs. Kimbrough. There were no exercises on Tuesday, but at night, at 8 o'clock, the exhibition exercises began, and for two or three hours were listened to joyfully by a large crowd. The piece played was "Above the Clouds," and not a single mistake was made during the play.

"Above the Clouds," and not a single mistake was made during the play.

The exercises for Wednesday will be recitations and speeches from the higher branches until 11 o'clock; then Colonel Grigsby Thomas will deliver the annual address. The graduating class will read essays at night and receive their diplomas. Professor Hayes deserves much credit for his work in this school, for he has been been been above as meant and the second of has been working earnestly all the time, and if the professor should leave this school the trustees would find it very difficult to fill his place for he is a scholar, a gentleman, and a

ATHENS, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—The spacious parlors of the Lucy Cobb institute were a scene of beauty and loveliness tonight. The occasion was a reception given by the graduating class to their visiting friends. The halls and reception-rooms were most elaborately decorated and many Chinese lanterns-brightened the promenades through the beautiful lawn. The guests were received by a committee and many happy acquaintances were made. The dining-hall was decorated with palms, and waying tassels of corn were gracefully entwined waving tassels of corn were gracefully entwined around the center pillars, while mirrors and paintings ornamented the walls. How Is Your Blood

If you feel that your blood is not in good condition, do not lose time and take the risk of serious illness by taking nostrums, but go to the point at once by using S. S. S. An Old Sore Healed.

I had a painful, annoying sore on my leg, near the knee, that troubled me for over two years. I tried various remedies, but the sore, instead of healing up, continued to grow larger, and to cause me more pain until I began to look for a crutch. Through the advice of a friend, who was cured of a similar trouble, I took S. S. S., and in a few weeks was cured entirely. The sore healed up, and there is not even a scar left to mark the place. ing in feeding it to stock during the winter is considerable. Furthermore, you will have all your manure where it can be more easily handled and properly cared for. Farming is a science, and I hardly think the people study it enough. It occurs to me that if the farmers studied their business and looked after it as clossly as the city merchants or bankers do their business, and adopt plans for the promotion of their interests in the same way that the merchants and bankers do, I am convinced that they would make much more money, and be much happier. They have at last come to this conclusion themselves, and the alliance is doing a great work in this country. It is simply going to be the redemption of the south; not only of the south, but of the entire country.

"What is it that you grow on your farm, Mr. Hunnicutt?" said The Constitution representative.

"Well I grow most accounting.

Hunnicutt?" said The Constitution representative.

"Well, I grow most everything. As you see I have all kinds of stock and fowls. Then come my grass, cotton, corn, wheat, cats' and cane. A man can raise everything he wants on a farm if he will properly care for it. This fact has been demonstrated by the leading farmers of this state and this section. I find cane to be very popular. I got about four hundred gallons of choice syrup and saved plenty ef seed to plant again. I sell a great deal of this seed. I have made a specialty of corn this year. I think I have some as fine as I ever saw. Some people think I plant too thick, but I don't think so. I try to get eight hundred stalks per acre, and the double rows are simply a matter of convenience in working. I generally get about seventy-five bushels of corn per acre, and about seven thousand pounds of fodder.

So you see the corn costs me about twenty-two to twenty-five cents per bushel. My land is then ready for series of furnished. twenty-five cents per bushel. My land is then ready for a series of fine crops for years to come. The land that you are now looking at was originally very thin. As to my cats, I will say that the crop has been exceedingly good. The cold weather in March injured them very little. I use only the Hunleutt oats; besides being rust-proof, it stands the cold better than any cats I ever saw. I will get from fity-five to sixty bushels per acre, and would have reaped from seventy to eighty had it not been for damage done the crop. Every southern farmer is of course expected to raise cotton. I expect to get about two bales to the acre from my thirty acres. On this five acres nearest us, I made seven and one-half bales last year, and the prospects for this season is better, as I failed to get a stand last year."

While walking towards home, Mr. Hunnicutt said: "Now, if you will come to see me again a little later, I shall be glad to have you help me enjoy these cantaloupes and melons, and later on the sugar-cane, etc."

"Well, I think I will do so," said the scribe, "for you seem to live at home and board at the same place." TOWETA'S CANDIDATE FOR COMMISa'acts Which Show What the Poorest Georgia Lands Can Do, and Reveals the Secret Griffin, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—In the election of teachers and superintendent this afternoon, the following were elected for the ensuing scholastic year: Superintendent, Bothwell Graham, who will also have charge of the ninth grade, eighth, no election; seventh grade, Mrs. E. M. Drewry; sxth, Miss Mattie L. Tyus; fifth, Miss Louise Waddell; fourth, Miss Mattie Corbin; third, Miss Mollie White; second, Miss Annie Flanigan; first grade, A, Miss Annie Nunnally; first grade, B, Mrs. Dr. J. T. Johnson.

The board of education is asking council to increase their facilities for accommodating the children. It is apparent from the figures they present that something must be done, as the grades are greatly crowded. Under the management of Superintendent Graham the school has nearly doubled in the past two years.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED IN OCONEE

Charged With the Assassination of Mr. Ware -They Protest Their Innocence-Threats of Lynching.

WATKINSVILLE, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]— The supposed assassins of Mr. E. G. Ware, who was waylaid and shot from ambush some time since, four in number, were arrested this evening and lodged in jail tonight at 8 o'clock in Watkinsville. This morning Judge R. M. Jackson went out to Mr. Ware's to issue the warrants for the suspected parties. He was accompanied by Deputy Sheriff R. F. Miller and a posse of citizens. After issuing the warrants, they were placed in the hands of Officer Miller and his posse to be executed. The parties arrested were: Jesse Whitehead, Charles T. Whitehead, Charles T. Whitehead, James T. Streetman white, and Bob Griffith, colored, near neigh bors of Mr. Ware. The officers had no trouble in executing the warrants. The suspected parties were taken by surprise and submitted to arrest very grace-fully, loudly protesting their innocence. The evidence against the parties is circumstantial, and it is claimed that the Whitehead brothers did the shooting and the negro gave the signal, and Streetman acted as spectator to the terrible tragedy.

The committal trial will be held in the morning before Justice James E. Murray and all the evidence in the case will be brought out. Our people are very indignant over this outrage, and if the persons in jail prove to be the guilty parties, fears are entertained that they will be lynched. It is said that the Whitehead boys will give bail. While Judge R. M. Jackson and Mr. J. W. Johnson were returning from Mr. Ware's, their horse ran away, throwing them both out of the buggy, and they were very badly hurt. Judge Jackson was thrown violently to the ground, and one of his ankles was badly sprained. Mr. Johnson recieved painful injuries in the shoulder and hip. Though badly hurt both are resting easy tonight.

A CROWD OF TOUGHS

Visit Columbus, and Several of Them Were Arrested.

Columbus, Ga., June 26.—Two hundred negroes, mostly miners from Birmingham, many of them ex-convicts and notorious crooks, arrived here this afternoon on an excursion train. There was considerable disturbance on the trip. A number of people were robbed, and several fights occurred. Lee Russell, who was leaning from a car platform as the train entered a tunnel near Dadeville, was struck by a projecting rock, knocked off and instantly killed. Reaching here, several of the worst characters engaged in a row at the station, and some of the ringleaders were arrested by the police and lodged in jail. Ladies' gold watches and other valuables were found on them. All were armed.

profusion of flags.

The visiting companies have been royally entertained, and are lavish in their praise of the hospitality shown them by the Marietta bys.

By sunup this moring people began pouring into town from the surrounding country, and with the large numbers brought in by the railroads soon made standing room near the tournament on the west side of the public tournament on the west side of the public square go for a premium.

The parade was in every way a brilliant display and was very creditable to the gem city. It was led by the Marietta silver band followed by a carriage containing the following visiting fire chiefs:

Chief W. R. Joyner, Atlanta; Chief Dorsey, Atlanta; Chief Seay, Rome; Chief B. R. Legg, Mariette.

Marietta.

Next came in wagonettes mayor and city council; next was the carriage containing the judges and time-keepers; then Marietta's beautiful steamer, hook and ladder, of Marietta; Pioneer company, of Athens; W. W. Seay company, of Rome; Cartersville fire company.

Seay company, of Rome; Cartersville fire company.

At 1 o'clock the races began. There were four entries—Athens, Rome, Cartersville and Marietta. The first was a reel race. First prize, $100, was won by Marietta; time, twenty seconds. Second prize, $50, won by Athens; time 21 2-5 seconds. Best time to plug was won by Athens. Prize $25. Time 12-3-10. Next was a grab race, won by Athens. Prize $25. Time 20-4-5. Third was a shoc-fly race. Prize $50, won by Marietta in 20-15. A grand banquet will be given at the Einwood tonight to the visiting companies by the home companies.

WILL NOT REPLY.

Colonel Hardeman Will Not Reply to Mr. Northen's Letter.

Northen's Letter.

Macon, Ga., June 26.—|Special.]—In a conversation with Colonel Hardeman this afternoon, The Construction learned that he would not reply to Mr. Northen's letter published this morning. He says, however, that he thinks primaries are the best way in which to secure the sentiment of the people, and he hopes they will be held in every county in the state. His committee, it is understood, will meet the Northen committee in Atlanta Saturday. Throughout the day numerous encouraging letters have been received from all sections of the state, and it would seem that the old war horse is gaining favor in the counties heard from. Any intimation that his health is not good is altogether false and without foundation.

Colonel Olive's Return.

Colonel Olive's Return.

Lexington, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—Hon.
J. T. Olive, our candidate for congress, came home yesterday from a successful campaign tour. He spoke very favorably of the impression he made on the people, especially the farming class, whose claims he advocates so ably. Colonel Olive is the true expounder of the people's rights, as his record in the past fully justifies.

Mr. Gantt speaks very elaborately of the supposed boycott of his paper by the people of Oglethorpe. From all information, there is no boycott here, and none attempted by Colonel Olive or his friends. If Mr. Gantt was the mouthpiece of the district, and the people looked upon his paper as the beacon light, it might change matters, and Colonel Olive's friends would doubtless bring him to task about it, but such not being the case, his allusions have only been read and forgotten.
Colonel Olive is going to win the race, unless all signs full.

One or the Other.

A—Chicago is a great place.

B—What's up there now?

Nothing except the usual thing. If the people are not excited over some great social scandal it is some secret assassination.

That's so. It is either hug or thug.

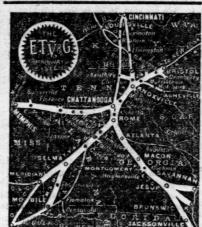

Keeping it a Dark Secret.

From Life.

"Clarence, dear," said the girl, anxiously, "what in the world do you suppose papa wouldn't say if he knew that you drank beer? You know how yery strict he is." "But he doesn't know it, darling," responded

Clarence, reassuringly; "we had a drink together today, and we both took|whisky." Willing to Help Her Out,

From Siftings.
Wife (sobbing)—Some day you'll find me at Death's door, and then what will you do? Husband (courteously)—My dear, have you ever known me to be so ungailant as to allow a lady to open a door when I was present?

THE DAILY CONSTITUTION, INCLUDING THE SUNDAY EDITION. will be delivered to any address in the city

TWENTY CENTS PER WEEK.

THE SUNDAY CONSTITUTION SENT TO ANY ADDRESS.

ATLANTA, GA., JUNE 27, 1890.

The State Road Lease. From the bids in the hands of the gov ernor today will be chosen the new lessee of the Western and Atlantic road.

mitted-certainly two. It is virtually certain that the road will go one of three ways, to-wit:

1. To the Louisville and Nashville sys-

2. To the West Point Terminal system. 3. Jointly, between the two above sys-

There may be other bids, but rumors to that effect have been very indefinite, and it is probable that they will not materialize.

In whatever way this magnificent property may be disposed of, the result will demonstrate the wisdom of the general assembly in refusing to sell the road, and in refusing to saddle the lease bill with a restrictive clause by which the bidding would have been necessarily limited. In having thrown the doors open to the world, inviting propositions from any source, the state will have the satisfaction of leasing its property to much better advantage than had it done otherwise.

THE CONSTITUTION is earnest and outspoken in opposition to the dangerous results of monopoly, and has always been so, but with an abiding confidence in the strength of the people we have never looked on the railroad situation in Georgia with the alarm that others have. We believe that the sovereignty of the people, lodged as it is in the railroad commission of the state, is an abundant guarantee that the rights of the public will be protected in any emergency. The time has never been when the people of Georgia could not take care of their own interests, nor will that day come.

We, therefore, do not view with alarm the probable bid of the Richmond and Danville, or the Terminal, for the road, for we are satisfied that the knowledge that they will probably be among the bidders will have a stimulating effect on the proposals to be submitted. And should their bid, if they make one, be considered the most advantageous, there would be no occasion for anxlety as long as the Georgia commission is operated under the present laws governing it, and its powers are constantly being increased.

We want to see the road go for every dollar that it will bring, and whoever gets it takes it with the understanding that the matter of rate-making rests entirely in the hands of those from whom they get it.

So long as we make the rates, we are sat-Isfied that the educational fund of the state the benefit of every dollar that the roa So much for the non-restrictive feature of the lease bill, by which the bidding will receive the stimulus of competition.

And now about the Louisville and Nashville. It will, of course, bid for the roadit is but natural that it should. It is one of the greatest railroad systems of the world, and the development of the country through which it operates has been a work of magic. Its public spirit is as proverbial as its enterprise is generous. With St. Louis and Louisville as its western termini, its main line operating direct to New Orleans, and resting on Chattanooga in the southeast, the 4,500 miles of this system forms one of the greatest railroad properties on the globe.

The wonderful development of Georgia makes the state an inviting field for this system, and it will surprise nobody to find it among the bidders for the Western and At-

It will be a great day for Georgia when the Louisville and Nashville rests on the Atlantic, to the southeast, after making its way through Georgia. It already owns a half interest in the Georgia road, to Augusta, and should it get the Western and Atlantic, It will complete the link which will carry it through the state.

This would make Georgia the chief seat of operation of two of the world's greatest systems of railroads, the Terminal and the Louisville and Nashville-with Atlanta as the pivotal point, and the question of competition would solve itself.

The lease of the Western and Atlantic by the Louisville and Nashville would have the effect of removing the railroad situation from the field of politics, at least for a time, for the result of its taking the state's property on the terms of the lease would be to solve the problem which enthusiasts and demagogues have used to ride into popular fancy, and which, in the form of dangerous legislation, threatened to wreck the railroad property of the state.

"The Original Packages." Alas, poor Kansas-almost afraid to know

Itself! The "original package" fight has disturbed the state from one end to the other, and there is danger of open war between the prohibitionists and the liquor men. There is no reason in the row; both parties have gone to extremes, and have allowed their anger to get the best of them. They are going it blind, and fighting as they go.

How modest and harmless the "original package" looks at a distance ! It is beautiwhite glove on a woman's hand. But when you tackle it on prohibition territory, it is transformed into a cyclone, which raises the devil and the dust! We fear for Kansas. All signs point to trouble there, and if the prohis and antis are not restricted in their manœuvres a general riot will be the unhappy result.

The Debate on the Election Bill. The debate on what the St. Louis Republic appropriately calls "the blocks-offive election bill," is under way, and it promises to be a vigorous and lively one. Indeed, the scenes in the house on Wednesday, when the bill came up for discussion, were of a very lively nature and a row seemed imminent.

It is a measure which is calculated to make men lose their tempers, and this is only the beginning of the end. The infamous imputation with which Mr. Cannon prefaced his remarks in support of the bill,

"No rogne e'er felt the halter draw With good opinion of the law," was promptly resented by the demo but the debate on a measure crats: It is probable that several bids will be subwhich is of itself an insult to the whole country, will be productive of more than individual insult, and the strife it may engender will be as nothing to the strife which will result if the bill is passed. In this, the dawn of a new era, when the sections have clasped hands, and north and south are reunited in the bonds of mutual friendship and forgiveness; when we are working together for, the common good and the white banners of peace are floating in the breeze that once waved the red flag of sectionalism, the enemies of the people, of national liberty and the rights of states are seeking with this measure to destroy the good which has been done, to incite the people to strife and make free government a mockery.

While, of course, they are ever ready with the statement that the bill has general application, and will be enforced everywhere, its purpose is clearly to control the vote in the south, where the congressional districts would be captured by the republicans and engineered to suit their purposes; and in a national election they would have things pretty much their own way.

The evils of the bill lengthen as it looms up; and it would be productive of evils yet adreamed of. The sublime impudence of the men who support it in the name of right and justice is unparalleled in political history, and the calmness with which they discuss its "virtues" is enough to make hones men lose their tempers and provoke a defiant protest from the whole south. We have commented on this bill in former editorials and outlined its villainous features. Our only hope is-and it almost amounts to a certainty-that the senate will stamp it out and consign it to the infamy it deserves.

The Real Grievance of the Negro. Republican orators are always raving about the "wrongs of the negro" in the south, but the close student of affairs will observe that whenever the negro complains of a wrong, he saddles it upon the republican party.

We never hear them quarreling with the democratic party; we never hear them saying anything against their treatment by the white democrats of the south; their grievances always assume a republican complexion, and are laid at republican doors.

During the national republican canvass, Mr. Harrison and his henchmen made many promises to secure votes. When money was lacking, a draft good for the office and pavable at sight was given. Especially was this the case with the negro. He was made to believe that his salvation depended on Harrison's election, and that the party could take care of him when it got into power. The result is that the said party now has a race problem on its hands which is difficult to solve. It cannot turn the country over to the negro, as it promised to do, and the negro has presented his draft and is clamoring for payment. He was promised everything, and he receives nothing. The hungry white republicans are howling for office; northern sentiment will not tolerate the negro in official position-except in the case of a few unimportant department clerkships-the south protests against being saddled with black republican sins, the east and west are equally particular, and President Harrison himself has turned his back on the negro and is taking his ease in his inn.

The result is-the negro is mad; he feels that he has sold his birthright for a mess of pottage; he calls conventions, indignation meetings, and denounces the administration and the republican party from Alpha to Amsterdam, with the accent on the "dam."

M. J. Jackson, a prominent colored republican of Madison Court House, Virginia, is one of the dissatisfied. He is in a savage humor with the administration, and has been airing his grievances in the newspapers. He worked hard for the party, and the other day he went to Washington in search of recognition. He had endorsements from the republican leaders of his state, but they slammed the door in his face, and gave him all the time he wanted in which to leave the city. He tells his experience as fol-

"I refer to my endorsements to show my standing in the republican party of Virginia, and to add force to my opinion that the southern policy of the present administration has alienated thou-sands upon thousands of colored republicans in Virginia and other states, and I make bold to sa that the enactment of an election law, together with all the coercive and corrupting means that may be brought to bear hereafter by white republican leaders, cannot keep a host of sensible col-ored men from flocking out of the republican party. Whether they will flock into the demo-eratic party remains to be seen. But just a little more Harrisonism mixed with Mahoneism in Vir-ginia will annihilate the republican party of that state and leave only a miserable factions. state and leave only a miscrable faction to strug-gle feebly and ineffectually against the democ-racy. I declare to you that republican ingrati-tude to the colored republicans of the south has done more in the giving of democratic majorities in segre communities than all the buildozing that in regro communities than all the buildozing the has been reported by the republican press. I remains that the pretended friends of the colore has been reported by the republican press. I repeat that the pretended friends of the colored man of the south—the white leaders of the republican party of that section—are the colored man's worst enemy. They induce him to go into politics.
They make all kinds of promises to him, and in most instances they betray him. For instance, I was induced by such promises to come to Washington, and here I have been dancing attendance upon the departments. I have been such by this upon the departments. I have been sent by this powerful leader to Census Superintendent Porter, and by that potent leader to Internal Revenue Commissioner Mason—to this one and to that one—all to no purpose."

This is plain language, and it voices the sentiment of colored men everywhere. They have been kicked overboard by the republicans and left to sink or swim, as best they may, and like Cæsar's spirit, they are "ranging for revenge," and revenge they will have. They have been slain in the house of their supposed friends, who are un-ful, delicate, and as soft and comely as a willing even to defray their funeral ex-

Signs of Reform.

The Birmingham News has been reading us a lecture on lack of appreciation of the good things of this world, and in some respects its criticisms are just.

In regard to the Chautauqua at Salt Springs, our contemporary says, with some degree of truth, that "Atlanta manifested little appreciation" of the great and noble undertaking, which, it admits, "was managed with infinite skill, and was conducted by capable, learned and worthy men.

It charges in the indictment that "learning, genius and taste, the divinest music and choicest eloquence," were illustrated last year at Salt Springs, and that Atlanta did not appreciate her opportunities.

The Chautauqua idea is comparatively a new one in Georgia, and it was not expected that the first experiments would be eminenty successful and overwhelmingly endorsed. It is not true, however, that Atlanta did not appreciate the Chautauqua, though we admit that her appreciation was not as full as it might have been. But she is thoroughly in love with it now, and will make amends this year for any lack of interest in the past. We are glad to know that Birmingham is growing literary and appreciative. It will lo much to soften the rough-and-ready reputation she has before the country. Her endorsement of things literary is worthy of note, and we take it as a hopeful sign. She promises to charter excursion trains this year and fill the Chautauqua tents with apprecia tive multitudes.

Good! We will have a number of misionaries on hand to welcome them and go to work among them.

No Mummies Need Apply. We are glad to learn from the Chicago Tribune that the exposition which that city is getting up will be essentially a modern show, and that very little attention will be paid to antiquities. For the benefit of its esteemed contemporaries the Tribune states in advance that the Sphinx will be undisturbed, and that the pyramid which covers the dust of Cheops will be allowed to re main where it is. Even the offer of Mr.

clined with thanks. This is very commendable; if we are to have a show at all, let us have a modern one -no living skeletons and petrified relics of the past, for they would only occupy space which could be better filled by the wonders of the present.

This programme plunges another dagge into the bleeding heart of New York, and in is evident that Chicago has adopted it merely to wound the vanity of her great metropolitan rival. It was New York's intention to place the obelisk on exhibition in Chicago, to be used as a sort of Eiffel tower at the fair. thus saving the Chicagoans the expense of building one, for which work New York feared they had not sufficient talent. But New York is shut out, and the only fossils that will be exhibited at the world's fair will be Elliott F. Shepard, of New York, and John Jeems Ingalls, of All-over, two talking machines which will repeat the ancient history of the country by heart and give their impressions of the late war which a few persons may remember, was fought between the north and south. In the meantime, it would be a good idea for Chicago to go to work on this exhibition and quit blowing about what she is going to Gas without works is dead.

A Cook Who Spoils the Broth.

The Rev. Joseph Cook, of Boston, is one of those tireless talkers who can talk ten nights awake, then slumber and talk still-without saving anything at all! From time to time echoes of the monotonous wagging of his tongue are wafted to us from over the deafened hills of New England, and the somnolent effect which the dreary noise has upon our senses is fatal to steady work in this warm weather. During the past winter Mr. Cook had a violent attack of the grip, it is said, from which he recovered only to be prostrated by the "Southern Problem," a disease which has prevailed for some time past in many New England districts, and he has neve been able to rally since, while his best friends are beginning to fear that his reason is de-

We confess that we cannot understand just what he would be at. While his business interests are evidently in the north, he has been preaching incendiary sermons to the south for a twelve-month past. He has got hold of the race problem and he has got it bad, and his latest symptom of acute mania is found in his discovery that the southern people have no business in the south; that this section, of the country was never intended for their occupancy; that they cannot live in such a warm climate, and must, eventually, abandon it to the ne

Then Brother Cook indulges in a lot of gibberish about an "irrepressible conflict," which is coming as sure as preaching, and predicts the end of the world with the greatest complacency.

It is a pity that such men as he is, who have ability to excel in some sphere in life, would not devote their talents to some use ful and beneficial work. While the south, under satisfactory conditions, is making a shining record for herself in the fields of progress and living in perfect peace and good nature with all the world, Mr. Cook is blowing himself out of breath over the ashes of sectionalism, vainly striving to kindle a blaze which will spread through the land until it lights the torch of evil everywhere.

Mr. Cook should take a trip south. It would benefit his health and enlighten his mind. But if he came for the purpose of discovering signs of an "irrepressible conflict," he would be grievously disappointed. Here he would find a milder sun than that which scorches the New England fields in summer; a people as hardy and as healthy who dwell in the valleys of the north; he would find his friend, the negro, happy and whistling on the way; he would find whole hosts of New England brethren dwelling in their own cities in the south and shouting for "Dixie" with all their might and main! But the disappointment would be so great that it would, probably, paralyze him,

If he will not come and be convinced, we advise him to go to work and quit quarreling with what he does not understand. Other men have lost their reason over this race problem, and the lunatic asylums are hun-gering and thirsting for more. It is said that Amelie Rives is showing great life in her writings now. We always knew that there was more of the quick than the dead about Amelie. THE "ORIGINAL PACKAGE" seems to be full of bottled wrath. AN EXCHANGE predicts that Ingalls "will be heard from" on the federal election bill. Yes, the bill is full of bad features.

The fact that Colonel W. J. Colonel Northen is not a man without a record. He has served his people in the state legislature, as president of the State Agricultural society and various positions of trust, and in every position we find him that same conservative, Christian gentleman. Popular to begin with, yet he has steadily grown in popularity from the time he entered this race. Mr. Northen is a farmer, but all other classes know so well the wisdom, statesmanship and conservatism that have characterized his entire life of service that they accept him as their standard bearer and join the farmers in doing him honor. The press of the state is almost unanimous for Northen—a thing that was never known before. It is, no doubt, a cherished consolation to Colonel Northen, as well as his many friends, to be made governor of the greatest state in this way. Northen, as well as his many friends, to be ma governor of the greatest state in this union, as practically without opposition.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

West End Academy.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: I am sorry to see in your paper of the 25th instant the complaint, and greatly strained fault-finding of "One who contributes to the Fiddler, but is not allowed to Dance." Surely the author of that article did not consider the matter properly; if he had, he would not, in my opinion, have published such an ill-advised grumble, and I do hope that when he comes to look at it candidly, he will refuse to cherish in his heart such a spirit of envious jealousy as this lis heart such a spine to letter evinces.

He says, "It is claimed that the school is non-sectarian, and is largely supported by the tax-payers, directly from the city treasury."

He then insinuates that it is a sectarian school, has by alleging that every principal the school has

He then insinuates that it is a sectarian school, by alleging that every principal the school has ever had was a Methodist, and that two-thirds of the board of trustees are also Methodists.

And he further alleges that no Presbyterian or Baptist "is considered capable, or well enough educated" to be principal of the academy, "and none others need apply," and that the bulk of the city's income is from "these other denominations," not recognized by the board in the selection of teachers."

Now this is clearly a charge that the Methodists tions,""not recognized by the board in the selection of teachers."

Now this is clearly a charge that the Methodists of West End have designedly secured the control of the academy, and are running it in the interest of the Methodist church, and against the Presbyterians and Baptists, and that the bulk of the money for the school is paid by Presbyterians and Baptists and diverted from its intended purpose, and used by a Methodist cabal to promote their doctrines and the interests of their church. This is not a direct charge, in so many words; but if it was not so intended, why was the point made? If the Methodists are running the academy in their own interests—making it a "sectarian" institution—against the Presbyterians and Baptists, why does not he who pays the fiddler and is not allowed to dance say so, plainly and squarely? If it is not so conducted, why make this ungenerous and disturbing insimuation?

When did a Methodist trustee vote for a Methowith make the state of the season of the academy because he was a Methodist? If such was ever done, please give names and dates. When did the trustees request or require a Methodist principal or teacher to teach the distinctive doctrines of his church to the pupils? When did a Methodist principal of the academy or a teacher in it try to make Methodists of the pupils, or to inbue them with Methodistic ideas or doctrines, or try to get. Them to go to the Methodist Sunday-school or church, in preference to the Baptist or Presbyterian? Give names and dates, please.

Now, if nothing of this kind had been done or attempted or intended by anybody-neither by trustee, nor principal, nor teacher—what is this man who pays the fiddler grumbling about? Has a single trustee ever objected to a principal or teacher in the academy because he was a Presbyterian or a Baptist? If so, give name and date, please. Does he who pays the fiddler want the principal and the teacher to be Presbyterians altogether, or Baptists altogether? or does he want a Presbyterian or a Baptist teacher in preference to a Methodist? If so, why? Does he want the destructive doctrines of his church taught in the school? What objection has he to a Methodist having charge of or teaching in the school? I did not suppose there was a man or woman in the city so narrow-minded—so influenced by bigotry, envy, jealousy and an unreasonable lack of tolerance, as is here manifested; indeed, I do not now suppose there is such When did a Methodist trustee vote for a Metho so influenced by bigotry, envy, jealousy and an unreasonable lack of tolerance, as is here manifested; indeed, I do not now suppose there is such a man in West End. I believe this man who pays the fiddler wrote that article and published it without due consideration.

Now, I do not know all of the trustees, but without knowing them I venture to say that not one of them ever, in the remotest degree, sought to obtain a Methodist principal, or a teacher, in preference to one of a different denomination, and that not one ever will.

I greatly regret to see this firebrand flung into our midst. I deprecate a disturber of the seace! I am opposed to making an issue that is out of place and uncalled for. If I understand the people of West End, we have no sectarian prejudices among us, and we want none. We will welcome and as cordially support a Eapitist or Presbyterian or Episcopalian or Catholic teacher as a Methodist. We care nothing for a man's religious creed; we want a teacher who is capable and faithful, and our people will make no other requirement; and if this man, who pays the fiddler, and is not allowed to dance, will telf me of a single member of the board of trustees of West End academy, who prefers a Methodist to one of any other denomination of Christians for principal or teacher, simply because he is a Methodist. Will have him removed from the board if principal or teacher, simply because he is odist, I will have him removed from the I can. Respectfully submitted,

IN BEHALF OF WOMEN. Bishop Spalding's Remarks at Notre Dame

Bishop Spalding's Remarks at Notre Dame's Commencement.

Notre Dame, Ind., June 26.—The radical declarations of Bishop Spalding, of Peoria, speaking to the faculty and students of Notre Dame university on the position of women, has created a sensation here among Catholics. Last evening, at the commencement of Saint Mary's academy, he went even further. After having complinented the work of the Sisters of the Congregation of the Holy Cross he said that the position of women had been the position that the southern planters gave their slaves. It was not better today than it was years ago. They were treated kindly as the slaves of the men he knew had been treated, but kept in ignorance. In this country, however, women had emancipated themselves. American women are more intelligent than American men. He demanded the highest education for woman and declared she must henceforth work side by side with man for the prizes for which men work and win. The bishop's words seem very like a statement of advanced belief in woman's rights.

New York, June 26.—Futures developed new features today, which were of more importance than changes in values, for whereas in the previous two days the crop showed a depression, while the next crop was firm and stronger. The market today closed slightly cheaper, or at least weak. It seems apparent that holders of cotton now think they can make a stand, and buyers, too, are apparently of the opinion that not much further decline can be expected at present, for they bought more freely both here and at Liverpool, and New York now controls nearly all that is left in the country, and Lancashire has been buying sparingly so long that her splinners have now small stocks. The next crop, on the contrary, was somewhat depressed. Heavy rains in the Mississippi valley, about Vicksburg, which have caused uneasiness and were undoubtedly objectionable, have ceased, at least for the present, and in other parts of the south the weather appears to be all that can be desired. The market opened higher on an unexpected advance in Liverpool. Presently it declined, falling below the closing figures of yesterday, partially recovered and closed steady. Cotton on spot was 1-16c dearer, with a fair business for home consumption.

UNION, S. C., June 26.—[Special.]—The democratic county convention met today and elected eight unqualified Tillman delegates to the state convention, which meets in September at Columbia. The convention was all one way, only Tillman delegates being elected. This makes two counties in the state that are solid for the so-called Moses and farmers' friend. Other counties have not held conventions. Tillman's methods are endorsed. D. A. Townsend, a member of the local bar, announced himself on the Tillman ticket as a candidate for superintendent of education of the state, and will soon join the others who are dragging the talt name of this state in the dust. There are circumstances going to show that ontrages were all perpetrated by the same par-ties, but no arrests have been made, and the affair is still a mystery.

The reward is offered for the attempted as-assination-$150 for the arrest of the parties with the proof to convict. Another Reward.

A reward of $150 was offered yesterday for the arrest and conviction of the murderer murderers of W. A. Tripp. Tripp, it will be remembered, was the man found dead by the railroad track at Suwanee some time ago. The coroner's jury thought he had been murdered, and Conductor Lee charged with the crime. They were all acquitted at their preliminary hearing in Lawenceville The reward is offered at the instance of the

The Bonds Sent Off. The entire issue of state bonds left Atlanta esterday evening for New York.

To look at the package just before they were taken from the treasurer's office, an ordina observer would never suspect their real value. The bonds, aggregating over $1,900,000, were divided into two equal heaps, and then locked up in two small burglar-proof safes. Just before the Richmond and Danville train was ready to leave these safes were taken in charge by the express company and hurried Everything was done quietly and off.

smoothly. The bonds are consigned to the state depository in New York, to be by them, on the 1st day of July, formally delivered to the purchaser, Mr. John H. Inman. The Geological Department. Dr. J. W. Spencer, the state geologist, has ust returned from his trip to Europe, reaching Atlanta yesterday.

The geological department is revived next Tuesday, the 1st of July. Dr. Spencer is quite busy arranging to have things start off smoothly. His assistants—Mr. E. T. Whatley, of Newman, and Mr. C. C. Anderson, of Hawkinsville—will probably be here today.

OPENING UP NEW TERRITORY. The Work of the Nashville, Chattanooga and

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 26.—[Special.]—A. general meeting of the stockholders of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway was held at the office of the company today at 12 o'clock. A resolution was unanimously adopted ratifying the purchase and authorizing the completion of the Tennessee and Cooss railroad; the construction of an extension of the Jasper branch from Dunlap to Pikeville, Tenn., and the issuance of the company's first consolidated mortgage five percent bonds upon said extensions, as provided in the mortgage. Fifty-four thousand out of 66,000 shares of stock were represented. This means an expenditure of at least $1,750,000. The Tennessee and Coosa is now completed from Gadsden to Attalla, and will be completed to Huntsville, or some point on the Huntsville branch. Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars is paid for the road, and the fifty or sixty mile extension will cost and the fifty or sixty mile extension will cost not less than $18,000 per mile, about $1,080,000. Engineers are now in the field locating this line, and it will be completed before January 1, 1891.

This road will open up the mineral and timber lands of northern Alabama to Nashville, and give Nashville wholesale merchants access to a territory that they have not before entered. The Pikeville extension will be entered. The Pikeville extension will be about twenty miles in length and cost about $400,000. The line has already been located. The right of way was secured at $25 an acre, and the road is exemp'ed from taxation by Bledsoe county for twenty years. It will also be completed before January 1, 1891.

Immediately after the stockholders' meeting the directors met and authorized the president the directors met and authorized the pres to carry on the work to an early completion. They also declared the usual quarterly divided of 11 per cent, payable on and after Wheel Moving.

CENTRALIA, Ill., June 26.—The Illinois Central strike is now in full blast. All the crews on the main line between Centralia and Dubuque went out yesterday. Those on the Cairo division are now all out, and not a wheel turns except to carry the mail. Traismaster Higgins attempted to take out a train in the afternoon, but the cars were uncoupled, and the engine taken to the round-house by the strikers.

BALLAD OF A BABY. A. D. 1307. It was all in a burn-seurry
Duke and duchess in a flurry;
For at last with hope forlorn,
They had fled—O tale of pity—
From their sacked and burning city,
With their little babe new born.

When Duke Frederick, sore defeated, With his flying troops retreated Through the Neckar's winding vale, And the foe pursued for slaughter, Up from Frederick's baby daughter Rose a faint and moaning wail.

"Now what alls the little being?" Quotn the sire, as they were deeing;
Fleeing wildly, hotly pressed;
And the mother answered, sighting,
"Ah! the little thing is crying
For she needs her mother's breas

Down the duke from saddle vanited, Shouting, "Let the troops be halfed— Let the furies do their worst— Let the country folk betray us— Let the conquerors find and slay us— But the baby shall be nursed."

So within a shady hollow,
Though the foe were soon to follow—
And to tarry was to die,
And to tarry was to die,
Horse and rider stopped to water,
While the little dueal daughter
Drank her milky fountain dry. The pursuers would have chuckled Had they seen the baby suckled, But they rode another way, And they never set their clutches On the happy duke and duchess, For the baby saved the day.

Then the fugitives, fhough routed, Being saved from slaughter, shouted; And they vowed amid their joy, That the babe for that day's merit Should the ducal crown inherit, Just as if she were a boy.

When at last the child so tender,
Who had been the land's defender,
Was a peerless woman grownNot a flounced and sighing charmer, last an Amazon in armor.
She was duchess on the throry

GATHERED ON THE STREETS.

An original Northen man and an enthusias tic one is Judge Frank Little. If there is a better fellow than Frank Little in the state or a better friend, I don't know him, nor does anybody know a more ardent supporter of Col-

"Northen's 'chances' you say, Northen's certainty you mean," was the way Judge Little answered a query about the political situation as viewed from the home of Colonel Northen.

"Yes," he continued, "we all regard it a certainty now. Seab Reese and I receive daily in our office telegrams and letters from all parts of the state. There is but one state of affairs, and that seems to us to prevail everywhere. Colonel Northen is as certain of election as anything can be. We figure it now that he will have from two-thirds to threefourths of the convention, and to tell you the truth, many people down our way wouldn't be surprised if all opposition were swept away before the convention assembled. We all like Tom Hardeman; he has many warm friends in Hancock; but Colonel Northen is one of us, and we're for him the best we know how."

General A. R. Lawton, of Savannah, spent a few hours in Atlanta yesterday. Another well-known Georgian whose name appeared on the Kimball register was Judge J. K. Hines, of Sandersville.

"Look here! The people of Georgia don't seem to be on the right line in this Chipley-Call controversy," was Mr. Clarence Knowles's comment upon a matter which means a great deal to a democrat of Florida.
"Chipley's the man to tie to," he continued.

"He is by all odds the best party to that controversy, and he is, too, the best man in Florida. I'm a Chipley man and I believe he ought to whip the fight with Call."

Senator Colquitt, who has been in attendance upon the commencement at Emory, left last night for Washington. "There are always enough democrats in congress," he said, in discussing the house vote on the silver bill, "who are controlled by the noney power in Wall street, to defeat the will of the party as a whole upon any matter fiscal or financial. The money power comes mighty near controlling the country when it has a small body of men to work upon. The hearts of the people are light, though, and they will win in the end."

Some of the Atlanta correspondents of outside papers have discovered that a good many Atlanta Hardeman men are very much disappointed in the manner of campaign which their favorite has seen fit to carry on. That there are some such, there can be no doubt.

"Ever since Hardeman came out," explained one of these gentlemen yesterday, "he seems to have blundered at every step. His letter was good in many points, but it was neither alliance nor anti-alliance. The position he should have taken was a square-out endorsement of the alliance. He believed in it enough to become a member; certainly, then, he could have consistently given alliance principles the strongest kind of endorsement. That would have put him where his farmer friends could consistently vote for him. The cities would have taken care of themselves. Then he fell into a trap in going to Gwinnett, where the cards were stacked against him. But the worst mistake of all is his sitting down 94. Sixth grade—Miss Nina Mitchell, teacher. Ex-Collector Tom Crenshaw, who is a close student, close watcher of things political, was talking about the race in the fourth.

Mr. John A. Donavan, manager for R. G. Dun & Co., made that remark yesterday as he read The Constitution's story of the splendid new building which is to grace Edgewood avenue. "There is nothing Atlanta needs so badly.

Everybody who has ever looked into the matter knows that Atlanta is without any suitable place where merchants or traveling men can entertain their customers or where they can take their own midday lunches. The great convenience of such an institution as a commercial club is recognized everywhere and almost every city of any pretensions has a splendid one. Here in Atlanta it is especially needed. The Capital City club is too far from the center of business to fill the bill, and then, too, that is a distinctively swell institution, which merchants do not, in the every-day rou tine of their work, feel like patronizing. We need a club just like the commercial club would be. For some time the establishment of such an institution has been discussed by or such an institution has been discussed by merchants and business men, and now that suitable quarters can be found an organization will doubtless be perfected in the near future."

The new Equitable building will cost probably $500,000. It will have a Pryor street frontage of 159 feet and a frontage on Edgewood avenue of 180 feet.

THE LAST DAYS

OF THE CLASS OF '90, BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL.

nteresting Commencement Exercises at De-Give's Last Night—The Class and the Speakers—The Senior Girls Tonight.

Veri verbis, fortes actis. That is the class motto of the graduating class of the Boys' High school.

Last evening the final commencement exercises were held at DeGive's opera-house under most flattering auspices.

A brilliant audience filled the house some time before the curtain was rung up, and for two hours the young gentlemen held the undivided interest of all.

This year's class is a large one. Of course it is the brightest and most promising, that ever was sent forth by the old high school. This has been so of all the classes that ever graduated, naturally it is so of this one and ever will be of all others to ever. be of all others to come.

Only one more commencement scene remains to be enacted. This is the final exerthis evening's exhibition will be a fitting close to the week's display.

Last evening the exercises began promptly at 8:30 o'clock. When the curtain rose the young graduates were disclosed sitting in semicircle across the stage, with the high school teachers and members of the board of education immediately behind them:

Rev. D. I. S. Hopkins opened the evening's exercises in a beautiful and appropriate prayer, asking the divine blessing upon the young men, and praying that they might go forth to lead useful and true lives.

Mr. Delos L. Hill, sharer in the second honor, d livered the salutatory. He is one of the brigh st lights in the class, and his brief address was in a most happy vein. Mr. Hill welcomed the audience, and spoke in fitting terms of the instruction his class had received in its convex through the high school. He also in its course through the high school. He also referred feelingly to the late David Mayer, whose benevolent face was dear to all the pupils of the school.

Loud applause greeted the young salutato-Mr. Edward B. Beatie delivered eloquently Breckinridge's address on the "Removal of the United States Senate to the New House." After which Ransom's oration. "The South Faithful to Her Trust," was spoken by Mr. W. C. Bennett. Both speeches were spoken with fine emphasis and graceful gesture.

"Work, the Philosopher's Stone," was the subject of Mr. Fred. C. Frazier's essay. It was a splendid production, expressive of more than the usual depth that is characteristic of the school-boy essayist. He paid a beautiful tribute to Mr. Grady, holding his example up as showing what could be won by work.

Mr. Delos L. Hill was the next speaker.
He delivered an essay on "Truth, the Polar Star." He quoted the saying that it is possi-ble to reform drunkards and gamblers, but to reform a liar was a more momentous matter.

"Parents should teach their children truthfulness above all things," he said, "for there was no grander honor than to be called a truthful no grander honor than to be called a truthful man."

Mr. Hill's essay was really a fine effort, full of beautiful and expressive thoughts, well blended and delivered with fine effect. He was loudly applauded.

"Freedom," recited by Mr. Harry J. Love, was well spoken, and the essay by Mr. Percy R. Mays, which followed it, was one of the very best productions on the programme. "In the Dim Distance," was the heading of Mr. Mays's essay. In thought it was original, with a poetical fullness that captured his listeners. "The Ideal Leader," was the subject of Mr.

Culberson H. McCall's paper, which was fully up to the reputation as a bright scholar he has made during his career in the public sceools. Mr. John E. Ozburn, in his essay, "Fruit Among Thorns," elicited great enthusiasm. He is a young gentleman of undoubted talent, which was clearly demonstrated by the able manner in which he handled his subject in the "Character" was the theme chosen by Mr. Guy Thurmond for his commencement paper. In it he drew in glowing words the character of the ideal man and traced the lines upon which

The class prophet, Mr. Sol. B. Cerf predicted the future of hist companions in a most entertaining manner. He made of them almost everything that a human mind could suggest, at the same time paying tender tribute to the many good and noble qualities possessed by the comrades who had spent their school days with him.

Mr. A. Frank Liebman, first honor, delivered the valedictory to the board of education and superintendent. His speech was one of the best that has ever come from the lips of a high school graduate. It was chaste of language and eloquent of thought.

The valedictory to the teachers and class was spoken by Mr. Edward R. Austin, first honor. "The Present and the Future" was the theme of his address, which, aside from its tender recollections of school days, dealt thoughtfully with the advancement and advancing spirit of the times.

John B. Gordon, Governor.

THE REPORT OF EXAMINERS.

The board of examiners of the Western and Atlantic completed their report yesterday.

Altegether it shows the road to be in excellent condition.

Altagether it shows the road to be in excellent condition.

The property is classed as good, ordinary and bad. The classification is not based upon comparison with any other railroad, but is designed to indicate, as nearly as possible, the absolute condition of the property.

The report of the committee appointed October 24, '87, is taken as a sort of basis for this report. Another aid to the examiners has been a memorandum, prepared by Mr. Martin Dooly, showing the number and length of side-tracks in the state.

As to the road-bed and main line track.

The condition of the earth-work is excellent: the surface of the fills and cuts is ample, and the drainage good. About 80½ niles of the main line is ballasted with stone and clinker. The main track is laid in steel rails, which are the drainage good. About 895 miles of the main line is ballasted with stone and clinker. The main track is laid in steel rails, which are in ordinary condition for nine miles gut from Atlanta, and for the other 128 miles are in good condition. The nine miles nearest Atlanta is most worn, because of heavier use. The ties are good, though the joints and spiking are not in good condition, and the track is well lined up and dressed. The bridges are all in good condition; the culverts, all of masonry, are also in good condition. The masonry of the tunnels is all in good condition.

sonry, are also in good condition. The masonry of the tunnels is all in good condition.

The only items classed "bad" are a few small buildings and portions of the side-track.

MR. STAHLMAN HERE.

Vice-President Stahlman, of the Louisville and Nashville, is here to represent his road when the Western and Atlantic is leased.

"I have no idea what is going to be done," he said last night in reply to a question. "It will be Saturday at 11 o'clock before we know who has the road, and until then I don't feel like I had much to say."

"How will the road probably be leased?"

"I hear all sorts of rumors about that," he ughed. "I hear that the Terminal company laughed. "I hear that the Fernman company will bid $35,000. Somebody else told me they were going to make a higher bid. Then they say the Louisville and Nashville is going to bid and a home company. Somebody else thinks there will be a joint, lease, and so it goes. You can hear almost anything you wish about it." "Will you submit a bill on the part of your

The major looked thoughtful awhile.

"Yes," he continued, "I hear all sorts of rumors about the lease. The idea of my asking Anderson if there were engines enough—that's silly. As if we couldn't take the books and the figures and tell just as well as he could."

Arrived Safe.—Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Saloshin, formerly of Atlanta, arrived in Bromberg, Germany, their future home, on the 15th instant.

A New President.—At a meeting of the directors of the Atlanta Banking company yesterday, C. C. McGebee was elected president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late John R. Gramling. Rare Water Lilies.—The imported lilies in Crystal lake, Inman park, are now in bloom, and to see them is well worth a trip to the park. These lilies were brought from South America, Egypt and South Africa, and are of various colors.

The "Reformed Journalist."—Next Sunday morning, June 20th, at the Lithia Springs church, there will be a special sermon by Rev. Henry D. Howren, the reformed Charleston journalist. Mr. Howren has spoken to large and delighted audiences all over the state. The people of that community and the public generally are cordially invited.

He is Slowly Improving.—Mr. Gust. E. Leo, the well-known architect, who has been on the sich list for about a month, and who has been very il for two weeks, is slowly improving, but is still no out of danger.

Shooting at a Distiller.—The report of a seizure in Mitchell county was made at the revenue agent's office yesterday. The distiller was found at the still at 4 o'clock in the morning, and when approached by the officers drew a revolver. The officers fired at him, but he ran away through the woods without being arrested.

There have been thirty illicit distilleries captured in Georgia and Alabama within thirty days.

Going to Chattanooga.-The Atlanta Artillery will go to Chattanooga to attend the reunion of the confederate veterans. The men will carry two guns, and will take part in the sham battle Twenty-five men will represent the Atlanta Artil-lery, at the reunion of the "yets," and will leave Atlanta July 2d.

Laid to Rest.—Mr. Pat McQuaid's funeral took place yesterday from the Church of the Immaculate Conception. It was largely attended and the remains were laid to rest in Oakland cemetery. A large delegation from the Confederate Veterans and another from the Catholic Knights was present. The pail-hearers were A. H. Bernard, John Farrell, John Doonan, M. M. Haverty, and R. L. Rogers.

Mr. Charles L. Darby Dead.—Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock Mr. Charles L. Darby died at his home on Garnett street. He is quite an old citizen of Atlanta, and is well known here. The services will be he'd at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the funity seridence.

Died Near Palmetto.—Mrs. M. A. Heath, mother of Mr. William Heath, formerly of Tanner, Currier & Heath, wholesale grocers, was buried yesterday in Campbell county, near Palmetto. Mrs. Heath died suddenly of heart disease Monday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. B. Leigh, at the age of seventy-three years. Mrs. Heath was the youngest sister of the late General A. Busing Green, Ky., Times, of June 2d:

Ten days since Mr. and Mrs. Featherston came to our town to visit relatives—the families of J. E. and W. T. DuBose. With them was an exceptionally bright and beautiful little son of nineteen months; large for his age and the picture of health. A devoted father or loving mother knows well the joy such a child is in the family, but a heavenly father loved better than they; knew better what was for the best interest of the boy He had another place prepared for him and last Saturday night, after a week; of great suffering with inflammation of the stonach and bowels, He carried him to the home prepared. Sunday afternoon little Julius was laid to rest in Fairview, Dr. R. H. Rivers, a former tracher of Mrs. Featherston, conducting the services with beautiful and comforting words. Sorrowing parents must find comfort in the fact that He doeth all things well, and if they have been called upon to sacrifice the dearest object of their hearts to His will, they will remember that He once give up its only son for them.

Hampton High School.

Hampton, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—This school has just closed a very successful term. A year ago there was little interest manifested in the cause of education. Our people felt the need of a good seheol. They consulted and decided to act. This they did harmoniopsly and liberally. The salary authorized first-class teachers, the fine brick building was fitted up, and the school was opened in January. Nearly or quite one hundred pupils have been in attendance. The average attendance has been very good. The teachers have been very faithful and efficient, the pupils have been studious and diligent, the patrons have encouraged and nobly sustained the teachers. The whole community is proud of the school.

"In the summer of 1864 I was sent to the Annapolis hospital, suffering with chronic diarrhea. While there, I became so reduced in strength that I could not speak and was compelled to write everything I wanted to say. I was then having some 25 or 30 stools per day. The doctors ordered a medicine that I was satisfied would be of no benefit to me. I did not take it, but per-suaded my nurse to get me some of Dr. Ayer's Pills. About two o'clock in the afternoon I took six of these pills, and by midnight began to feel better. In the morning the doctors came again, and after deciding that my symptoms were more favorable, gave me a different medicine, which I did not use, but took four more of the pills instead. The next day the doctors came to see me, and thought I was doing nicely, (and so did I). I then took one pill a day for a week. At the end of that time, I considered myself cured and that Ayer's Pills had saved my life. I was then weak, but had no return of the disease, and gained in strength as fast as could be expected."—F. The National Association of Post-Office Clerks Urging the Co-operation Every Member to Work for the Bill.

The postal clerks of the entire country are pounding away at the congressmen of every district throughout the land for the passage of the modified eight-hour bill now pending before congress.

The National Association of Postal Clerks has issued, through its secretary, Mr. P. A. O'Malley, a circular letter which has been sent to every postal clerk in America, urging upon them | the necessity of making an open and earnest fight for the passage of the bill. The clerks in the Atlanta post-office received these appeals, and are expected to do their share of the work to secure the eight-hour

The postal clerks are an overworked set of fellows, and deserve better recognition as such than they have heretofore received. ork. Mrs. Laura Printup with Mrs. Dr. Cheatham, 50

There are many objections raised to the eight-hour bill by those familiar with the duties of postal clerks, but everybody seems to agree that the men should be paid more liber-ally, or their work be lightened in some way.

Even Postmaster-General Wanamaker has spoken in behalf of the postal clerks, and ap-pealed to congress that they receive a kindlier ashington.

CUSTOM SHOE DEPARTMENT

My force in this department having been increased yesterday by the arrival of two English shoe-makers, I am now prepared to make shoes promptly. I employ none but New York and English shoe-makers who, having served in the best English and American shops, are able to turn out shoes unexcelled by any.

REPAIRING.

In connection with above I am running a repair shop where halfsoling and mending will receive prompt attention.

it you are always busy selling while other houses are doing nothing?" The answer is easy. I keep what the trade wants and sell goods close. No startling bargains; no gorgeous array of imported fabrics gathered from every clime under heaven no magnificent stock bought from a manufacturer who had failed; no 50 per cent reductions that don't reduce; none of this sort of stuff, but a n owledge of what the people need.

Stock bought low for cash and sold at close prices—this does the work. Now is the time to buy a suit. All Cassimere suits going cheap. Hot weather clothing in great variety.

A NEW RAILROAD

TO RUN FROM ATHENS, GA., TO CHAT-TANOOGA.

One Hundred and Fifty-five Miles of Line in State-No Truth in the Memphis and Charleston Rumors.

THE CONSTITUTION is authoritatively inormed that there is nothing whatever in the rumors which have been current for the past two days that the Memphis and Charleston railroad, and the Chattanooga, Rome and Car-rollton railroad would consolidate. The authorities say that the question of such conolidation has never been seriously considered.

Chattannooga Southeastern. Atlanta enterprise and capital is represented in a railroad project that materialized yes-

Application for charter was made to build a railread from Atlans to Chattanooga, through the Georgia counties of Clarke, Jackson, Hall, Gwinnett, Foryth, Dawson, Cherokee, Pickens, Gilmer, Gordon, Murray, Whitfield, Catoosa and Walker.

Work is to begin at once, and pushed as rapidly as men and money can carry it.

The incorporators are W. A. Robinson and E. H. Frazle, of Atlanta; J. T. Robinson, of Athens, and E. R. Hulbert, of Chattanooga. The charter is applied for under an act of the legislature approved April 27, 1881.

The capital stock is $1,000,000, divided into 10,000 shares of $100 each. That part of the line from Athens to the Georgia line, in Walker county, as already surveyed, is about 155 miles. The hot days of summer will soon be here Before they come take Hood's Sarsaparilla to tone up and strengthen your system and put you in good condition. Sold by all druggsist

Medical Enthusiasm.

Medical Enthusiasm.

Some physicians, noticing the excellent tonics antiperiodic and antipyretic properties of Smith's Tonic Syrup, have endeavored to ascertain its composition. Of course the proprietors of this valuable remedy would wrong themselves if they made the secret of their cure public property. Why should its composition be considered so long as proves it an effectual remedy and as easily obtainable of druggists as is quinine. Many people who buy and use quinine don't know it is made from Peruvian bark. They don't care to know. They know it nearly always cures the chills and fever, and that is all they want it for. So too, the people know that Smith's Tonic Syrup is better than quinine. They know it cures chills and fever when quinine fails. They know also that Smith's Tonic Syrup will break up a cold or an attack of influenza, la grippe, etc., quicker than any other drug. They know also that it is pleasant to take and never leaves any unpleasant after effect. They know also that it can be used as a substitute for quinine and always with more satisfactory results.

A THRILLING ADVENTURE

In a Cave With a New Mexican Cinnamon Bear. DUNCAN, Arizona, June 28 .- [Special.]-Mr.

George Hosper is a citizen of Grant county, New Mexico, having come here a few years ago from Taylor county, Texas. He is about forty-five years old, and notwithstanding he served four years in the lost cause and underwent many hardships and privations, he is a perfect specimen of physical manhood, and is as hale and hearty as when he stood a beardless boy in the front ranks of the 44th Alabama at Gettysburg and bravely defended his home from the invasion of his northern foe. Mr. Hosper is an Alabama boy, and was raised in Randolph county, about fifty miles from Atlanta. He has many friends in the vicinity of Atlanta. He was a great admirer of Grady, and has been a constant reader of THE Constitution ever since its publication. George, as he is laminarly camed by his friends, has a great weakness for frontier life and wild adventure, and has had as many hair-breadth escapes perhaps as any man in New Mexico.

The most thrilling adventure of his life occurred a few days ago, and your correspondent having heard something of it concluded George, as he is familiarly called by dent having heard something of it concluded to see Mr. Hosper in person, and get full par-ticulars for publication in The Constitution. Mr. Hosper is a very modest man, and though he delights in relating his many won-derful adventures, he always managers, if pos-sible to make some one else the hero, and sible, to make some one else the hero, and touches very lightly on his own exploits. He lives on the Gila river, where farming is carried on altegether by irrigation. He owns a little farm, which he and his children cultivate principally in garden truck for the Calvin on altogether by irrigation. He owns a little farm, which he and his children cultivate principally in garden truck for the Calvin market. Chumanon bears are numerous here, and Mr. Hosper's love of adventure often drives him from his well-tilled farm and causes him to spend weeks in the mountains in search of his grizzly fee.

About eight miles from Mr. Hosper's is a mountain known far and wide as "Steeple Reck." It has two peaks rising high towards the heavens that very much resemble church steeples. There were formerly three of those spires but in 1882 an earthquake demolished one of them and the tumble down rocks around its base very much resemble the pictures of some old demolished Scottish castle. A deep canyon meanders through this mountain and numerous unexplored caves can be found between its base and summit.

A few days ago Mr.3. Hosper informed her husband that the "meat" was out and, as is usual on such occasions, he shouldered his Winchester and struck a bee line for the Steeple Rock mountain, a favorite resort for the clunamon bear. He generally makes the excursions alone, but on this occasion and for the first time, he took his son, a lad of about twelve years.

Whether providence directed him to do this matters not, but as the sequel will show the means of Mr. Hosper being rescued from a horrible and lingering death.

This is perhaps the roughest country on the globe, and all hunting is done on foot. A burro is generally taken along to carry the grub and bring back the game, and is taken as near the hunting grounds as possible and "staked out."

Mr. Hosper and his little boy penetrated Steeple Rock canyon to a suitable camping near the hunting grounds as possible and "staked out."

Mr. Hosper and his little boy penetrated Steeple Rock canyon to a suitable camping ground and, staking out their burro, started out in search of game. About a mile from camp he sighted a large cinnamon bear about 1,000 yards distant on the mountain side. Directing his son to keep close in his rear, he crawled to within about 200 yards of the bear and, taking deliberate aim, fired. At the crack of the gun the bear hastily disappeared over a small eminence, and when Mr. Hosper went to the spot where the bear stood he found the blood so plentiful that he readily supposed that the wound was a fatal one. Following the trail of the blood about half a mile, he found that the bear had entered one of the numerous caves that abound in the canyon. Canyon.

The entrance to the cave was about six feet

In centrance to the cave was about six feet in diameter and appeared to widen as it extended under the mountain. Mr. Hosper waited some time, hesitating whether to enter the cave or not. A small stream of water was running from the cave and hastenwater was running from the cave and master-ing down the mountain side to the picturesque valley below. After consulting with his son the conclusion was reached that the bear must be dead and that it would be no difficult matter to find him and bring him out. Gathering up a lot of the Spanish dagger for a torch it was lighted and the exploration began. The boy went in front with the light, closely followed by his father with cocked gun ready to shoot, should the bear prove to be yet alive. For about thirty feet the cave widened and the with tweether to wide and the state of the shoot that the state of out until it was about twelve feet wide and perhaps eight or ten feet to the ceiling overhead, then it spread out in different di-rections, and from the best observation that could be made with the dim light, it appeared could be made with the dim light, it appeared that the different apartments terminated at no great distance ahead. Selecting the apartment on the right, the party proceeded forward, and had not gone more than ten feet when they distinctly saw the bear crouching in the corner of the cave. That he was not dead was evident, for he arose from his recambent position, and with a growl, was approaching his pursurers. There was no time for consultation or deliberation now, it was eminently a time for action, and the man who had stood the "racket" in a hundred battles did not waver now. As quick as a flash the trusty Winchester was discharged and the bear lay a corpse at his feet. The son, who had shown no sign of flineling during this trying ordeal, approached the bear with his torch and found that he was really dead. It was a very large one, and required the exertions of the two to drag it from its lair.

ordeal, approached the bear with his torch and found that he was really dead. It was a very large one, and required the exertions of the two to drag it from its lair.

A short rope was tied to each hind foot, and to this was fastened the gun for the two to pull by. Mr. Hosper says that he had just fastened the rope to the center of the gun barrel when he heard a rumbling sound from the direction of the cave's entrance. Hastily dropping his gun, he clasped the boy by the hand and ran towards the entrance. When he reached the cave's mouth he found that a large amount of loose rock and rubbish had fallen from overhead, and that the entrance to the cave was about half filled up. They got out as soon as possible, and with thankful hearts for their preservation were starting for home when Mr. Hosper thought of his gun. To abandon this trusty friend was heartrending and before doing so another consultation took place. Returning to the entrance of the cave and examining it carefully Mr. Hosper decided to wait an hour and if no more rubbish fell from the celling to re-enter the cave, quarter up the bear and bring it and his gun to the entrance. At the expiration of the hour everything remained quiet, and wisely leaving his son on the outside he returned to the bear and cutting off a ham he shouldered his gun and hastened towards the front. He had not proceeded more than twenty feet when a repetition of the horrible rumbling was heard. Hastening towards the entrance, he was soon horrified to find the opening closed up, and apparently hundreds of we gonloads of earth and rock obstructing his way. The man who had stood in line of battle and faced the fee without a quiver, now stood appalled when he realized his perilous situation. Here shit up in a dismal cave, with no hope of rescue, destined to starve or smother, it was exnough to make the stoutest heart was extinguished, and he was left in Egyptian darkness, he fell on his knees and prayed as he had never prayed before. He shouted at the top of his voice until he was ho

After some time he became convinced the After some time he became convinced the was the only living being in the cave, and now feeling a sense of security he arose to his feet and began to move around in his small prison. Groping his way along he found the carcas of the dead bear and thought with satisfaction that he had the means of prolonging his life for many days to come. Knowing that somewhere in the cave was the fountain head of the little rivulet he had seen in front, he began the search for water and soon found a small stream emerging from one of the chambers.

that at least four or five hours must fore his son could go home and return with assistance, he threw himself on the ground and soon fell asleep. How long he slept he had no means of knowing, but after awhile something cold touching his hand, he awoke and found that he was lying in water. For the first time the horrible probability of drowning entered his mind. The natural course of the little stream was obstracted and here, by slow degrees, he was destined to drown, even a should he escape starvation. The thought was horrible and seeking a dry spot he again sat down and resigned himself to his fate. Not seeing the streak of lighthe conjectured that it was night, and adapting his feelings to the situation, he again fell asleep and slept until morning. When he awoke again he felt hungry and returned to the bear to get his breakfast. He found the water nearly knee deep and as cold as ice. He dragged the careass to a dry spot and attempted to eat the raw fiesh, but his stomach revolted and he had to desist. While trying to partake of the raw meat he thought he could hear the voice of some one shouting his name. He jumped from the ground and hastened towards the mouth of the cavern, but soon found that to reach the fallen debris he would have to swim. He shouted at the top of his woice, and this time he could not be mistaken, for he distinctly heard the voice of his wife calling, "George, George!" The voice, however, was not from the direction of the cavern's mouth, but seemed to come from the opening above.

Leaping wildly into the air he ran to the the cavern's mouth, but seemed to come from the opening above.

Leaping wildly into the air he ran to the opening, shouting as he went. His wife heard his voice, and when he reached the opening he could see the outlines of some one above. No communication could be had, as the distance was so great that but few words could be distinguished, but he knew that rescuers were at work, and unless he was drowned by the swelling waters he would live to see his dear ones again. A small bucket was let down through the opening, and for three days he was fed from above. The debris was removed from the mouth of the cavern with mules and scrapers, and on the third day he was re-cued. It seems that a man in the vicinity had once explored the cave, and knew of the opening from the top.

May Be Saved if You Will Think of Yourself a Moment and Then Act.

Ulceration of the bowels, usually called "itching piles," is a very common affliction, and not causing much pain is usually considered of small importance, and the disease is allowed to develop into a very grave affliction. The symptoms of this trouble are moisture and itching around the anus, pain across the hips (low down), diarrhea, and irregular bowels, pain in lower part of same, indigestion, and a long train of nervous symptoms, differing in nearly every case); and in the female, who are more liable to be affected than the male, many symptoms usually attributed to female diseases. This disease is a very fruitful cause of many diseases refusing to yield to the treatment of your physician, and places you on the list of "incurables." The results of neglecting this affliction are terrible to contemplate, a general impairment of health, frequently so slow as to be scarcely noticeable, derangement of the nervous system, unfitting you for business or enjoyment of pleasure, the development of cancer and stricture of bowels, or loss of power of controlling same when happily death intervenes and relieves the sufferer of histortures. This is a terrible picture, but a true one. You may by neglect make this your own; can you take the risk when a cure is offered you? Treating rectal diseases exclusively for a number of years, I am able to offer you a cure without the usual pain attending the treatment employed by one who has not the experience in treating these diseases. The mode of treatment I employ for their cure is mild and is not unpleasant in anyway, as I use neither knife or caustic applications. I have cured many, and I am willing that they should tell you of my success if you wish to. I can furnish you their names if you prefer it. On my past success I am willing to stand or fall. Can I offer you anything fairer? If you wish to investigate what I have said to the satisfaction of the most skeptical. For further particulars call or write to the s

THE STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

901/

NEW YORK, June 26.—Expressions of opinion in the street, after the rejection of the senate amendments to the silver bill had become known, amendments to the silver bill had become known, were generally favorable, but, as indicated by quontions today, the feeling did not extend to the buying of stocks. Dullness in the market today was again extreme, with a general drooping tendency in prices. That the dullness in the street is not based upon the business of railroads, is sufficiently curphasized by reports of earnings received of late for the third week in June, St. Paul alone showing unfavorably. There was some pressure in trusts and St. Paul, the latter on a poor showing for the third week in June, but fluctuations were on a strict parity with the amount of business done, and in many of the leading shares did not extend to ½ per cent for the entire Shares did not extend to 1/2 per cent for the entire session. Chicago Gas was sold for no apparent reason and forced off from 564% to 5534, but recovered most of the loss later in the day. Sugar, on the other hand, was advanced sharply in early trading to 72, but fell away again to 70, with many and sharp fluctuations in the meantime. The advance in the morning rate of discount of the bank of England this morning reflects the indisposition of government to allow any further drain of gold from London, and a scarcity of money in London made that center a seller to a very limited extent at the opening, which may account for the decline at that time. A later effect of preparations for July disbursements was shown in the selling of July disbursements was shown in the selling of domestic operators, and while there was no pressure in any one spot, the feeling that there will be an unfavorable bank statement Saturday aided in the selling movement. The heaviness lasted throughout the day, and the close was dull but heavy at about the lowest prices of the day. Final changes show a uniform line of declines, and while most are for small fractions St. Paul lost 1%, Chicago Cas H. Louisville and Nashville 184. Local—Nothing doing.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular,

NEW YORK, June 26—[Special.]—The cotton market today has been nearly a repetition of yesterday in the course of prices. Liverpool opened firm at an advance of 1-64d, which by 2 o'clock had been further increased 1-64d, the close being quiet at the highest prices. Spot sales are 10,000
b.des. The Manchester report is steady for yams and quiet for cloths. In sympathy with the better feeling at road this market opened at an advance of some 7@8 points, but the buyers of yesterday afternoon were sellers this morning, and the improvement was speedily lost, August sellday afternoon were seilers this morning, and the improvement was speedily lost, August selling down to 11.55. From this there was a slight reaction, the close being steady. Septembers have been rather weaker today; in fact, all the new crop deliveries are a shade easier than last evening. A telegram to us from Galveston reports that probably 509 bales of new cotton will be received there in July. The crop is undoubtedly an early one, though just commencing to suffer in some sections from too much rain. On the whole the excitement of the past few days seems to have put cotton in stronger hands both here and in Liverpool, and any favorable influence is liable to meet with quick responses.

THE CHICAGO MARRET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CITICAGO, June 26-Wheat-A good speculative demand and stronger feeling with prices ruling somewhat higher all around. The market opened $\frac{1}{4}\emptyset\text{@}\cdot\text{c}$ lower than the closing figures yesterday and then started up, advancing sharply and with and then started up, advancing sharply and with scarcely any fluctuations 1½@1¾c, eased off some, with the deferred futures declining more than July under heavier offerings, and closed 1½c higher for July, ½c higher for August and September and only ½@½c higher for December. The firmness was attributed to large export elearances and unfavorable crop reports from the northwest. The decline later-was owing to free selling orders from cut-side reports. outside points.

Corn was fairly active most of the session, though there were times when there was little doing. The feeling was stronger, and trading was at higher prices. The advance was due almost exclusively to heavy purchases of a prominent local trader, who bought July and September estimated as much as 2,000,000 bushels. The market opened a shade under the closing prices of yesterday, was easy for a time, then ruled stronger, advancing 1/2 @ 1/2c, ruled easier and closed 1/4 @ 1/2c higher than yester-Oats were active, stronger and nigher. Prices advanced \(\frac{1}{2}\) & from inside figures and closed with a net gain of \(\frac{1}{2}\) & ever yesterday. The closing for August and September was weak, but steady for the other months.

Mess pork—Only a moderate trade was reported. Prices declined \(\frac{1}{2}\) & even of the near and 10\(\frac{1}{2}\) & conthe more deferred deliveries.

Lard—Trading was moderately active, and at the nearly sales were made at a slight reduction in opening sales were made at a slight reduction in prices, but at inside figures sales were more liberal. Prices advanced 5@71/c and the market closed comparatively steady.

Short ribs.--More doing. Prices were advanced 5@71/4c, and the market closed comparatively
